Renew Hunt For Plane

SEARCHERS PIN HOPES ON SHIP LANDING INTACT

Believe Liner Carrying Two Mansfielders, May Be Down In Eight Feet of Snow.

WEATHER HAMPERS HUNT

Deep Scar in Side of Snow-Covered Mountain Focal Point of Search.

Searching parties hunting the missing TWA airliner carrying two Mansfielders, which vanished in the mountains of California Tuesday night, pinned their only hope today on the fact that the plane may have landed intact in the eight feet of snow which blanketed mountains and fields, United Press dispatches said.

Search for Tracy Dirlam, 21, and his sister, Mary Lou, 19, who were among the nine persons aboard the ship, was resumed early this morning with army and commercial planes joining the auto parties that started the search yesterday but had to stop last night because of the weather.

Students' Father Better.

At the Dirlam home today, Jay Dirlam, father of the missing boy and girl, was slightly improved. It was his critical illness from a heart attack earlier in the week which started the two students at Leland-Stanford university on their plane trip homeward.

Dirlam has not been told of the fate of the plane carrying his children, as physicians believed that the shock might be fatal.

Tracy and Mary Lou, both graduates of Mansfield high school and popular in younger circles, left San Francisco on the ill-fated plane at 9:30 p. m. (EST) Tuesday. The liner, which was routed for Kansas City, was forced to change its course at the take-off and head toward Los Angeles instead, where it was to continue eastward.

TWA Sees Hope.

Donald Black, spokesman for TWA, said early this morning that there was "a possibility that the plane had landed intact in a snow covered mountain meadow." He contended that because of deep snows it would be difficult for passengers and crew to get from the plane to any point of communication.

Both Associated Press and International News dispatches said that a deep scar on the side of a snow-covered mountain, high up in the Sierras, was a focal point for several searching parties. Shortly before nightfall yesterday, searchers sighted what appeared to be a deep scar on the side of the mountain, with mysterious

STILL IN DANGER

Pershing Shows Little Improvement Over Night.

TUCSON, Ariz.—(AP)—Physicians maintained a close watch today on the condition of Gen. John J. Pershing, whose steady improvement slowed, although not sufficiently to arouse apprehension.

"The general is not yet out of danger," said Dr. Roland Davison.

Improvement shown by the 77-year-old World war commander late last night had not maintained the rate set in the previous 48 hours. But Dr. Davison said that "should not be interpreted as offering occasion for alarm."

News-Journal to Have 'Face' Lifted--New Type to Make It Easier On Readers' Eyes

THE NEWS-JOURNAL will have its face lifted and put on new raiment over the week-end, and on Monday—look out for us—we will step out in such new finery as will please even the most critical reader.

Our new "face" will be a tremendous saving on readers' eyes and will give the paper a more clean-cut appearance.

We are, just in case you want to get technical, changing to all new type, an Intertype Regal, eight point letters on an eight and a half point slug.

That doesn't mean much to you? We'll explain. At present we are using an eight point letter on an eight point slug. So, by using an eight and a half point slug, there will be additional white space between lines. And white space not only makes a paper easier to read but gives it a cleaner appearance.

In choosing the new type our first consideration was legibility, a most important factor in this hit and run age of reading, when newspapers are scanned on buses, in autos, on street corners and in poorly lighted rooms and corners.

You will probably notice first, when you see the new type, that the letters are larger. They are. You

ASSEMBLY ENDS SESSION WITH BITTER CLASH

Votes 4 Millions to Agencies 12 Millions for Relief Work in Counties.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — An uproarious legislative melee, marked by a bitter, verbal clash in the senate, brought to an end early today the three-month old special session of the 92nd Ohio general assembly.

Called originally by Gov. Martin L. Davey to appropriate $2,800,000 for state departments and institutions and $7,500,000 for poor relief, the legislature:

1. Appropriated $4,468,000 for numerous agencies but very little for the executive departments which the governor sought primarily to assist; and
2. Granted $12,000,000 to counties, municipalities and townships for relief in 1938, a sum which legislative leaders contended was adequate for only half the year.

After weeks of debate in which only $1,431,000 was appropriated, the legislature shifted into high gear on the final day and voted expenditures totaling $3,036,000.

Cuts Off Million.

Appropriations on the last day actually mounted to $4,468,000, but at 2:35 a. m. today the senate rescinded its approval of a $1,000,000 grant for building improvements at state welfare institutions.

This action came as the climax of sharp exchange of personalities between Senators Keith Lawrence of Cleveland, Democratic floor leader, and Horace W. Baggott (D-Montgomery).

Lawrence charged that the senate approved the bill under a misapprehension. He said it permitted expenditure of the entire $1,000,000 in a single county, instead of dividing it among a dozen or more state institutions.

Baggott, in turn, charged that the opposition of Lawrence and other Cuyahoga county senators was motivated by a desire to perpetuate the present system of caring for mentally ill persons in private institutions at state expense.

Sen. Harold D. Nichols (D-Clermont), siding with Baggott, said the bill would "break up the out-patient 'racket' in Cuyahoga county."

The senate rescinded approval of the bill by a vote of 11 to 3, with about half the members not voting.

The senate quit work at 2:50 a. m. after the house had gone home at 1:10. Both branches, while planning no more working sessions, will meet perfunctorily within a few days to permit their

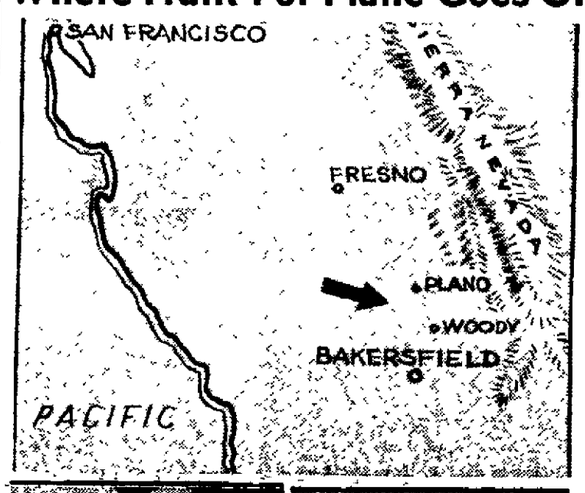
EXPLOSION SAVES LIFE

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Alfred B. Shelby, 24, lighted a cigaret as he awaited death in a gas filled apartment. That was all he could remember, he told police. A hospital physician said the cigaret caused an explosion which brought police who saved his life.

Where Hunt For Plane Goes On



Search for the missing TWA airliner on which two Mansfielders were passengers went on today, the map above showing the exact locality in which the plane is believed to be down. Lower pictures show Martha Wilson, whose home is in Bridgeport, O., stewardess on the missing plane, and John Graves, pilot. The Mansfielders aboard were J. Tracy Dirlam, 21, and his sister, Mary Lou, 19. They were on their way home from Leland Stanford university, called here by the illness of their father, J. N. Dirlam.

'Missing' Records Found In State Liquor Offices

Miller Tells Auditor They Were Taken From Stinchcomb 'Without His Knowledge.'

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The missing liquor warehouse records sought by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson were found today in the state liquor department enforcement division.

Ferguson said he was informed by Liquor Director James W. Miller that the records were obtained from G. R. Stinchcomb, head of Franklin Warehouses, Inc., without Miller's knowledge.

Concerning Sen. Verner E. Metcalf's assertion that State Democratic Chairman Francis W. Poulson was "using" the state auditor in an attempted "whitewash" of "the Stinchcomb liquor affair," Ferguson said he would not comment until he had studied the official record of the remarks.

The senate investigating committee, of which Metcalf was a member, obtain testimony last week that Stinchcomb's firm was doing 80 per cent of the liquor warehousing business for Ohio.

'Poor Time to Whitewash.'

Metcalf told the senate yesterday:

Metcalf said Ferguson had refused to co-operate with the graft-hunting committee, asserting:

"He evaded coming before the committee. He refused to co-operate with us. I am charging him with bad faith and unless he can exonerate himself, the people of the state have a right to know what's going on."

FINAL FLING?

Mercury to Drop Tonight, But Climb Upward Friday.

Winter is due for what may be its final fling tonight, the weather forecast predicting temperatures as low as 10 above zero in northern Ohio

Clear skies will accompany the cold wave, and warmer weather will reach Ohio Friday and Saturday, the forecasters said.

The cold, which blew in last night from the northwest, dropped the mercury 23 degrees to 19 above early today.

Newsboy Makes Own Headline, Shot To Death In Hold-Up

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Twenty-year-old Jack Legan, Plain Dealer newsboy and circulation employe who welcomed a "hot story" to stimulate sales, provided the "Page 1" headline himself today—in death.

A single bullet from a robber's gun killed the "newsie" when he dashed into a restaurant in the city's colored district to place a stack of first edition papers on a counter.

Witnesses said Legan apparently died without realizing he had happened upon a robbery in progress. Depositing the papers, he whirled to return to the street without glancing toward two colored gunmen.

Before Legan entered, the restaurant proprietor, Blaje Angeloff, 46, had knocked a cash box from the hands of one of the robbers. As Angeloff engaged the intruder in a scuffle, the other gunman opened fire. Three bullets missed Angeloff.

Then Legan romped in the robber who had failed to shoot Angeloff swung his gun toward Legan and fired, killing him.

The pair fled with about $60, Angeloff said.

DAVEY VENTS IRE ON SPARKS, ORDERS OUSTER

Tells Jaster to Do Away With Position as Penalty for 'Hot Mix' Testimony.

CALLS HIM 'DISLOYAL'

Governor Suggests Engineer Look to 'Co-Conspirators' As He Turns Him Out.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(INS)— Harry Sparks, bituminous paving expert ordered discharged from the state highway department today by Governor Davey, indicated he would fight dismissal in the courts.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Dismissal of Harry Sparks, engineer in the state highway department who testified against the state administration at recently concluded senate hearings, was ordered today by Governor Davey.

"He is obviously unfit for any position of public trust," Davey said in a letter to Highway Director John Jaster. "Therefore, I request that you abolish his position forthwith and let him look for his succor to his co-conspirators."

Follows Jaster's Report.

Davey's letter was in reply to a report from Jaster in which the highway director categorically denied that, as charged by Sparks, a "gentlemen's agreement" had been made between Jaster and C. W. Simpson, official of the Hot Mix Paving association, limiting the price to be bid on T-135 type hot mix.

Sparks is a civil service employe 60 years old

"It was bad enough for him (Sparks) to sit idly by all these years and make no protest about hot mix prices," Davey wrote Jaster, "if he really thought they were too high. This was especially bad in view of the fact he had developed this program, prepared specifications and developed the estimates.

"If the prices were too high, he is the one who must be to blame.

"It was bad enough that he waited until weeks after the Scripps-Howard newspapers had started their scurrilous campaign against the highway department, before indicating that he wanted to talk to you.

Calls Charges 'Falsehoods.'

"It was even worse that he should have been in collusion with these . . . newspapers before he had the decency to talk to his chief. It was equally bad that he waited until all the contracts were let for last year and the work practically finished before he expressed an opinion."

Davey went on to say that the "worst thing about his case" was that in a letter released to the newspapers he should "resort to complete falsehood" in charging Jaster with entering into collusion with the Hot Mix Bituminous Producers.

"I have always believed implicitly in your integrity," Davey assured Jaster, "and when you say that his statement is a complete falsehood, I believe it."

The governor concluded by declaring Sparks had "proven himself to be disloyal to the public" and "has shown himself to be surprisingly inefficient." "He is obviously unfit for any position of public trust," Davey declared.

CALLS COUNTY RELIEF SET-UP JUST 'MIXUP'

State Investigator Charges Lack of System in Handling Work.

C. M. Dawson, special state relief investigator who began a check of Richland county's January relief accounts today, described the relief situation here as "the worst in northcentral Ohio."

Examining the county's relief books at the county auditor's office in the courthouse, Dawson charged the set-up here is "a mixup," and being operated "without any definite organization."

"I don't think the plan used here for administering relief has ever been approved by the state, but this is the first time an examination of the county set-up has ever been made by the state auditor," he said.

Plans Three-Day Study.

Declining to comment further on recommendations for changes in the plan, he added "that will have to wait until we learn more about what's being done here." He said examination of the books may require several days. The report will be submitted to the state auditor's office and then to the Richland county commissioners who are in charge of relief administration

Commissioners, who were handed the relief burden in January under a new state law, had admitted they had no solution to the problem and three days ago went to Newark to study the Licking county relief set-up in their search for an answer.

The county appropriated no funds for relief at the beginning of the year, depending on state allocations to provide for the indigent in the county as they did last summer.

The county receives $5,500 a month now from the state, but in order to assure receipt of the funds had to put up half that amount in a lump covering a six-months period.

Under the plan, the county would have approximately $50,000 available for direct relief the first half of the year. More than half that amount has been used already, however, and the commis-

Levine Refuses to Admit Payment of Ransom.

(By Associated Press)

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Police expectantly awaited a "break" in the case of 12-year-old Peter Levine, missing one week today, as reports persisted contact had been made with the supposed kidnapers.

The father, Murray Levine, refused pointblank to admit whether he had paid the $60,000 investigators said was demanded in a third ransom note.

The New York attorney, who has remained at home here with his wife and 10-year-old daughter, intimated a statement would be forthcoming soon. He again appealed to police to let him handle the case unaided.

Levine complained "crank" letters and telegrams had left the family "tired and distraught"

LOS ANGELES CUT OFF FROM WORLD BY RAGING WATER

10,000 Homeless as Torrents Roar Over Cities; Damage Hits 30 Millions; Ten Drowned at Santa Ana As River Leaves Banks.

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(INS)—(Via Short Wave Radio to New York)—It started to rain again today in sodden and stricken southern California, bringing new fears to Los Angeles and nearby communities, already struggling under a terrific four-day storm.

(Copyright by United Press)

LOS ANGELES—(By Radio Telephone to San Francisco)—A devastating flood swept through southern California today from the rain-drenched mountains to the ocean, drowning dozens of persons and causing damage estimated at $25,000,000.

As suddenly as it swirled in during the night, it began receding shortly after dawn. At 4 a. m. (PST) the weather bureau in this stricken and isolated city announced: "The crisis has passed."

Dozens were drowned; thousands of families fled before the onslaught of waters swirling down from the mountains through the streets of metropolitan Los Angeles and its far-flung suburbs, and many were marooned and in grave danger.

It was a disaster of the first order. The Emergency Relief council was convened to cope with the worst crisis since it was organized during the Long Beach earthquake in 1933.

Los Angeles was isolated and cut off from all communications except short wave radio. And by radio, nearby towns sent frantic calls for help.

Ten persons were reported drowned early today when the Santa Ana river went over its banks north of Riverside and reverted to the channel from which it was diverted in 1852. Santa Ana is 40 miles south of Los Angeles.

An amateur radio operator said he had intercepted a message from the sheriff's office in Riverside asking for doctors and medical supplies.

The message mentioned "casualties" at a school house. Riverside was cut off from telephonic and telegraphic communication with the outside world and without power and lights.

Homes Buried Under Debris.

Collapses of pedestrian bridges and landslides in the hills that buried homes under tons of dirt contributed to a rapidly increasing death toll.

It was estimated that the dead already totaled 35; that from 5,000 to 10,000 families were homeless refugees; that property damage would be between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000.

Back in the scenic foothills, mountain streams had filled flood control reservoirs to overflowing and there was a peril that any one of several dams might crumble and cause a worse disaster.

Heartening News.

Rains abated early this morning and only light showers were forecast for the day, which was heartening news to the thousands

BATES ASKS FOR 5 MORE POLICE

Chief Proposes Addition of 2 Plain Clothes Men and 3-Man Traffic Squad.

The annual pleas for additional men for the police department took on added momentum today with a request from Police Chief Meade K. Bates asking city council to grant him five new patrolmen.

The request, in the form of an ordinance, asks that council provide for the employment of two additional plain clothes officers and three more patrolmen, which would add about $7,000 to the $50,000 annual payroll of the department.

Bates said he had talked to members of the finance committee of council and that they had taken the request under advisement. He explained that should the proposal be granted, the two additional plain clothes officers would augment the detective force which now has only two officers, although one patrolman has been serving in that department on patrolman's wages.

"There are so many old cases in our detective files that we don't have a chance to work on most of them," the chief said. "With two additional officers, we could clean up some of the old cases that are continually piling up on us."

If the three additional patrolman are placed at the disposal of

MOVES UP DATE

State Allows Use of New Auto Tags on Saturday.

Motorists will be permitted to display their 1938 license tags on and after Saturday, instead of March 10 as originally planned, it was announced today by Frank West, chief of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The change was made when representatives of the Automobile Dealers association asked for the earlier date as a means of co-operating with National Used Car week, which starts Saturday and runs through March 12. As the result persons purchasing used cars next week can use 1938 plates immediately instead of transferring the old plates for only a few days' use.

Mansfield auto dealers are joining in the observance which is already under way here.

DUCE AT RITES

Walks Behind Body of Poet-Soldier on Journey to Grave.

GARDONE, Italy—(INS)—Premier Mussolini and other cabinet ministers today walked behind the gun carriage bearing the body of Gabriele D'Anunzio as the poet-soldier started on his journey to the grave.

At Il Duce's side were D'Annunzio's two sons, Mario and Gabriele. The youngest son, Capt. Ugo D'Annunzio, is now in New York. The procession moved above the shores of Lake Garda to the local church, where thousands paid their last tribute in a memorial service to D'Annunzio.

Fund Admits Girl Scouts as Agency—Sets Dates for Drive

Mansfield Girl Scouts will become an agency of the Mansfield Community Fund this year as the result of action taken last night at a meeting of the executive committee of the fund.

The committee also set the two-week period from May 9 to 21 for the annual fund campaign when the city raises money for character building and charitable agencies.

Philip H. Ober, president of the fund's executive committee, said that the Girl Scout council, of which Mrs. Roger Black is chairman, had petitioned for admittance to the fund several weeks ago, asking slightly under $1,000 to finance a part-time program.

Because of the work that is being done by Girl Scouts and increasing interest in the project over the country, the committee decided to make it one of the character building and good citizenship agencies that function through fund, Ober said.

Action on the amount to be allowed the Girl Scouts will be taken by the budget committee when it meets later in the month.

Paul Snyder of the Cub Scouts, appeared before the committee last night and asked that a small supplemental amount be allowed the Boy Scouts this year so that his group of younger boys could expand their work. At present there are 67 Cub Scouts—boys between 9 and 12 years—in the organization. Boys under 12 are not eligible for Boy Scout work. No action was taken on the request until it can be discussed with the budget committee.

MILITARY ASKS ITALY TO BORE TUBE TO SICILY

Army Strategists Considering Island as Vital Key to Empire's Defense.

ROME—(U.P.)—A tunnel under the Straits of Messina to insure the safe and rapid transport of troops and material to Sicily in event of war is again being urged by military experts.

Just like the contemplated tunnels under the Straits of Gibraltar and the English channel, the Messina tunnel idea is not a new one.

For years engineers have visualized a tunnel which would join the island with the mainland. Like many super-projects it was put away to collect dust and was forgotten.

Creation of the empire has revived talk of the tunnel. It is the military strategists who see it as one of the requisites for the defense of the state.

Sicily, to use the words of Premier Benito Mussolini in his Palmero speech, has become the geographical center of the empire.

The island as such has become the principal stopping-off place for contact between the motherland and her possessions. Due to the present Mediterranean lineup and the development of warcraft, Sicily also has become the strategic center for all activity against potential enemies.

Key to Italy.

In other words Sicily can make or break Italy, it is admitted. Something must be done to make it impregnable to attackers. Air and sea bases are the answer. However, these bases must be manned and kept supplied with food and material.

Consequently the transport of troops, war material and food to Sicily must not only be speeded up but done with a minimum of risk and loss. Shipments of men and material via overland routes would be exposed to the bombs and projectiles of attacking enemy planes and ships.

The only answer to all this, say military experts, is a tunnel. Deep under the floor of the sea, safe from air or ship bombing, the tunnel would be the channel by which Sicily could withstand any enemy contact with Libya, Panteleria and the other possessions.

The tunnel under consideration would be about seven miles in length, only three of which would be under the open sea. The deepest point of the channel where the tunnel would pass is 310 feet, although the sea-bottom to the left and right of the projected boring, slants down to a depth of more than 975 feet. It is explained that this shelf of land is a continuation of one of the Apennine ridges from the mainland to Sicily.

The tunnel would extend from Villa San Giovanni in Calabria to Sant'Agatha, a suburb of Messina. The project includes both rail and road traffic through the tunnel. New autostrades would be conducted to the tunnel mouths.

While the construction of such a tunnel would run into millions, military experts argue that its use in peace time alone would pay for its construction and maintenance.

JAPAN PROPOSES TO POSTPONE OLYMPIC MEET UNTIL SEPTEMBER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—College track and field men, always the backbone of the American team, will be practically eliminated from participation in the 1940 Olympic games if Japan is allowed to carry through its proposal to postpone the meet until late September, it was admitted today by spokesmen high in the counsels of amateur athletics in this country. Officially, they are indignant about the thing and said as much in cables of protest to the International Amateur Athletic federation which next week in Cairo, Egypt, must decide whether it's prepared to go along with Japan on its plan to abide by the original opening of the Tokyo games, currently set for Aug. 24.

Unofficially, it was conceded that, if the American college man either doesn't or can't go to Tokyo, the rest of us might do better by playing a split-week over the old Poli circuit in vaudeville. Without complete representation from the colleges, it is estimated, the American team might be off as much as 40 per cent in efficiency.

Briefly, at the Berlin Olympics two years ago, Jesse Owens, while still an undergraduate, won three championships and anchored a winning relay team; college men won the 400, 800 and both hurdles for us, also the high jump and pole vault. In fact, college men won the meet for us.

Therefore, Avery Brundage, Olympic committee chairman, is being advised by cable of a virtually united support here in his fight against the late September date suggested by the Japanese delegate on the plea that it is too hot in Tokyo during August. Curiously, it took the Japanese two years to find that out, there being nothing said in this connection when the award was made in Berlin.

But then the trouble we're having now is strictly in keeping with the Olympic ideal and tradition and not to be taken too seriously, especially at this time. A little later, when the boys really get to leveling and the spirit of sportsmanship is rampant, some of the consulates have to keep a glazier handy in order to insure that their windows are in repair, what with citizens of rival countries standing off and throwing rocks and all that.

But don't get me wrong. It's all good, clean disorder and very fine for bringing about a better understanding between the races. Sometimes you wonder, though, if it wouldn't be better if we didn't understand each other so well.

25,000 Keglers Start Hostilities At Chicago Tonight.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Into Chicago's gloomy and barnlike coliseum tonight will march the vanguard of nearly 25,000 citizens, who get their biggest thrill in life by pushing around a lot of wooden pins.

They will launch the 38th renewal of the American Bowling Congress championships, an event which, the bowlers themselves fervently believe, makes the world series and Kentucky derby look like a marble contest in a school yard.

COACHES ROMP, 42-22

Score Easy Win Over Norwalk Club on Madison Court.

The Richland county coaches added another victory to their string last night by walloping the touted Keller News club of Norwalk, 42 to 22, on the Madison court. Lanky Johnny Rees was the offensive star of the evening, collecting 21 points. Keller was high for the losers with eight. The coaches led, 21 to 8, at halftime.

30 Ping Pong Stars Battle For Crown.

THIRTY Mansfield ping pong stars unlimber their arms tonight at the Y. M. C. A. as they open hostilities in the city-wide table tennis tournament.

The tourney, sponsored by the boosters and visitors month committee, and open to any city player, gets under way at 7 o'clock, and will be completed in one night, Dr. D. A. Weir, tournament chairman, announced today.

Frank Balbaugh Back.

Dr. Weir, one of the outstanding players in the city, tackles Robert McCullough in one of the feature opening round matches tonight. Another match which is creating considerable interest will pit Frank Balbaugh, former city champion who has been inactive the past season, against Frank Gadfield.

Bob Ellison, present champion, will not participate in the tournament. He is attending college and will be unable to defend his title.

Pairings for the doubles divisions will be made prior to the opening singles events tonight at the Y.

ST. PETERSBURGH—One of the Yankees' "if" men, young Tommy Henrich, is on hand and ready to prove himself capable of holding down regular outfield berth. Tommy drove in last night and will trot his celebrated trick knee, which underwent an operation this winter, into action at Joe McCarthy's command.

BATON ROUGE, La.—Carl Hubbell, the Giants' great left-hander, should be "both right-handed and left-handed," according to Manager Bill Terry. Terry turned thumbs down on a suggestion that Hubbell pitch against the Athletics Saturday or Sunday. "He does not need the work," said Bill. Three lesser lights will toil three innings each instead.

ST. PETERSBURGH—Frankie Frisch is anxiously watching Paul Dean despite the fact that nine other pitchers of varied abilities are in the St. Louis Cardinals' camp. Paul, 30 pounds lighter than a year ago, reported: "There's no sign of pain in my arm. I did not bear down but I'll be cutting loose before long."

WILLARD SETS TOURNEY

WILLARD—The fifth annual Northern Ohio Independent basketball tournament will be held in the Willard high school gymnasium March 24-25-26. The Birmingham Five won the title last year with a Lima team as runner-up.

This year for the first time there will be a third B class in order to interest more teams. Teams wishing to enter should contact either David Query or Herman Zink, Willard high school, Willard.

HERE'S COUNTY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Although defeated by Butler in the tournament finals, the Warriors, county champions in 1936 and 1937, qualified for the district elimination.

Defending champions in the district tournament, the Warriors will meet Tiffin Calvert in their first round game in Carey Friday night. Ontario was beaten in the first round of the state tourney last year by Upper Arlington, which won the Class B crown.

With a lineup shattered by graduation, Coach Orville Kibler developed a team at Ontario this winter that lost only two out of 16 games. Madison was the only other team outside of Butler to trim the Warriors.

The Methodists, with Fogle tipping in 17 points, defeated Central M. E., 52 to 20, while the Lutherans dumped Temple Emanuel, 38 to 14. The co-leaders opened up in the first stanza to take commanding leads they never relinquished. First M. E. limited Central M. E. to a free throw in the initial period to take a 10 to 1 lead. Richard Martin led the Lutherans with 15 points.

St. John's edged, St. Paul's, 42 to 39, and Mayflower, led by Botzer who collected 32 points, walloped Park Avenue Baptist, 62 to 18. It was the Baptists' 12th straight setback.

They shot totals of 3123 and 3056 as they rolled two matches, one a postponed series. Doug's men came through with the bigger count in the postponed match against the Roma Lunches, who rolled a 2845, to sweep the match.

The Men of Miller cracked out a 3056 to take a pair of games in the match with the Metcalf Pure Oils.

In the 3128 series, which included games of 1030, 1096 and 997, the Oldsmobiles were led by John Leppo's 687. Leppo put together games of 226, 224 and 237.

Meder Rolls 704 Total.

Sonny Meder came through with games of 258, 267 and 179 for a 704 total for the Oldsmobiles in the other match, while the team registered scores of 1047, 1027 and 982.

Records Favor Tiffin Club Over Tygers In Tournament

Columbian Has Won First Game Every Year Since 1925.

TIFFIN Columbian cage teams have never beaten Mansfield high school representatives on the court, and, in the same breath, it might be mentioned that the Seneca county school has not lost a first round tournament game since 1925.

This is the set-up as the two teams prepare for their tussle in an opening round game in the district Class A elimination at Sandusky Friday night.

All victory indications favor Tiffin in a comparison of records, but whether it will be able to bear out the dope remains to be seen.

Played Stiffer Sked.

Mansfield has probably played a stiffer schedule, but Columbian has lost only two games, and any team that can keep from losing more than that number must have something besides a set of uniforms, regardless of the type of opposition.

While compiling something like 16 victories in 18 games, Columbian won undisputed championships in the Tiffin city, Seneca county and Buckeye league championships.

Mansfield has encountered the Tiffin club in tournament play twice, and won both games. The Tygers defeated Columbian in the finals to win the district title at Sandusky about 10 years ago.

The Tiffin eagers have not been formidable district title contenders for a number of years, but their success in winning opening round games has been interrupted since 1925.

Tiffin will present an all-veteran lineup in which Kerschner, Mitten and Bero have been prominent. These three cagers have accounted for more than half of the entire Columbian total.

The Mansfield-Tiffin game is scheduled at 9 p. m., and is the last on Friday's program, which includes the Norwalk-Fremont and Willard-Tiffin Junior Order tilts.

In the second round games Saturday, Shelby meets Ashland at 6 p. m., Sandusky faces winner of Norwalk-Fremont game at 7:00; winners of Mansfield-Columbus and Willard Junior Order tilts clash at 8:00 and Port Clinton tackles Bellevue at 9:00.

Semi-Finals Next Week.

The semi-finals will be played a week from Friday, with the finals on the following night.

Jay Winters of Bucyrus and A. M. Smith of Elyria will serve as officials.

BUTLER, ONTARIO FACE TESTS FRIDAY AT CAREY

Bulldogs Tackle Sulphur Springs, Warriors Meet Tiffin Calvert In District Tourney.

RICHLAND county representatives in the district Class B basketball tournament meet anything but set-ups in their first round games.

Butler's Bulldogs, county champions, meet Sulphur Springs at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Carey, and Ontario, runner-up to Butler and defending district champion, engages Tiffin Calvert at 8:30 Friday.

Ontario defeated Calvert in the elimination last year, but the Tiffin Catholic is regarded as stronger this season. If the Warriors can get past Calvert, they may go far in the tournament.

Butler, likewise, faces one of the tougher contenders in a first round game. Sulphur Springs of Crawford county has lost only one game this winter.

If the county champions win over the Crawford entry, they will meet the winner of the Crestline-Marseilles game in a quarter-final tilt Saturday.

And if Ontario triumphs, it will meet either Fostoria St. Wendlin or McCutcheonsville of Wyandot county in a quarter-final game.

The semi-finals and finals will be played next week.

ROOKIES IMPRESS VITT

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (U.P.) — Three rookie infielders battling for places on the Cleveland Indians' roster for the coming season, today had demonstrated slugging tactics that may win them berths.

The Indians had their first batting drill yesterday and the rookies who captured the attention of Manager Oscar Vitt were Ken Keltner, the highly publicized third baseman from Milwaukee of the American association; Don Gugler and Tommy Irwin.

Keltner is a "distance" hitter and yesterday drove three pitches over the left field fence at Heinemann park.

Gugler, a former University of Iowa star, also was impressive at the plate. His showing may cause Vitt to switch him to the outfield, where reserve strength will be needed.

Irwin has the inside track on the second base job and may succeed Roy Huges at the station if he maintains the impressive batting form shown to date.

Rookies Bill Zuber, Tom Burke and Ken Jungles did the pitching during the batting drill.

THOMAS KO'S WINSTON

DES MOINES, Ia.—Harry Thomas, 189, Chicago, knocked out Ed Winston, 197, Hartford, Conn., (3).

Cleveland Boys In Semi-Finals

Return to Chicago for Golden Glove Fights Next Week.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Three members of the Cleveland Golden Gloves squad, which left for home today, will return next week for the tournament of champions semi-finals.

The Cleveland winners were lightweight Johnny Joca, light-heavy Willie Muldane, and heavyweight Daniel Merritt. Johnny Giachetti, Cleveland feather, was eliminated by Jack Simmons, Kansas City, Mo.

Each of the others won two fights last night. Joca decisioned Manfred Driscoll, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Bob Heydecker, Kenosha, Wis., Muldane defeated Ernie Valente, Milwaukee, and then kayoed Clarence Jones, Huntington, W. Va., and Merritt conquered Max Klemm, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Jack Townsend, Ogden, Utah.

FRASCELLA, CHUCKOVITS BATTLE FOR NEW RECORD

(By Associated Press)

NICK FRASCELLA of Wooster and Charley Chuckovits of the University of Toledo are fighting it out for an all-time Ohio intercollegiate scoring record—total individual points for a single season.

Frascella speared 18 markers last night in the Wooster-Kenyon tilt to boost his season's total to 379 units, thus overshadowing Chuckovits' 372 aggregate. Wooster defeated Kenyon, 60 to 45.

Both have exceeded by substantial margins the previous record of 352, hung up last year by the Toledo star.

End Season Saturday.

The scintillating forwards wind up the current season in separate contests Saturday night.

Frascella amassed his points in 17 encounters, while Chuckovits speared his in 19 engagements. The Wooster wizard has averaged 22.2 points per game while the brilliant rocker ace has a 19.6 average.

The Scot from Trenton, N. J., established an Ohio individual record during the 1935-1936 season with 296 points. He racked up 295 markers last season.

Chuckovits, a graduate of Akron St. Vincent's high school, soared into the national cage limelight in December when he bagged 41 units against Adrian (Mich.) college one of the highest recorded totals for a single intercollegiate battle.

BILLIARDS CAN CINCH SHARE OF LOOP TITLE

The league leading Rex Billiards can assure themselves of at least a share of the Senior white league championship Thursday night by turning back the dangerous Blue Goose outfit in the feature tilt on the program at the Friendly House.

The Cuemen are now riding a game in front of the runner-up Benny Hi Notes whom they meet in the final game of the season next week. The game is billed for 7:30 o'clock.

In the other games, the Hi Notes face the Dinger Independents in the opening tilt and the Zeigler Independents battle the lowly Mansfield Athletic Supply club.

AUTOS COUNTED FOR 4 OUT OF 5 FARM FAMILIES

Highest Average 97 Per Cent In California, Kansas and N. Dakota, Survey Shows.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Four out of every five farm families own an automobile, a survey by the Department of Agriculture disclosed.

Farmers buy on the average almost twice as many used as new cars, it was found. They paid an average of $263 for used and $739 for new cars.

Car ownership of all non-relief, native white farm families interviewed in the 1935-36 survey ranged as high as 97 per cent in California, North Dakota and Kansas.

Vermont Shows Thrift.

Car ownership among all farmers was 82 per cent. In thrifty Vermont the percentage was 73. In the Southwest 60 per cent of white farm operators owned automobiles. Among Negro sharecroppers the percentage was as low as 15 per cent.

Only in California did the white farm families studied purchase more new than used cars In most of the other areas studied, twice as many used as new cars were bought.

The purchase price of used cars ranged from $80 in Georgia and Mississippi to $330 in New Jersey and of new cars from an average of $637 in North Carolina to $932 in California.

"Farm thrift may be responsible in part for this buying pattern," Dr. Louise Stanley, in charge of the survey, said.

"However," she added, "it is probable that the American farm family is more ready to take a car that does not quite meet its dreams than to be without a car."

94 Per Cent in 4 States.

The percentage of car ownership among families interviewed in other sections was: Michigan and Wisconsin, 94 per cent; Illinois and Iowa, 94 per cent; Oregon and Washington, 91 per cent; Montana, Colorado, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Ohio, 86 per cent.

Car ownership was lowest in Georgia and Mississippi — white farm operators, 62 per cent; white sharecroppers, 20 per cent; Negro farm operators, 25 per cent and Negro sharecroppers, 15 per cent

Among all farmers interviewed, seven per cent purchased new cars and 12 per cent bought used cars during the year studied.

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Frederick Collins always manages to pack his books full of interesting information. His "Mirth and Mystery; a potpourri of joyous entertainment" contains some 300 odd pages, with all sorts of ideas for games. Twelve distinct subjects are taken up—Coins, Cards, Dice, Chessboard, Dominoes, Rings, Handkerchiefs, Checkerboard, Billiard table, Paper, Thread and String, and your Hands. Each subject is given a whole chapter, with dozens of amusing ideas for spending an evening. For example, the chapter "Fun with your hands" shows you a one hand deaf and dumb alphabet; the Indian sign language, both elementary and advanced; how to read palms; and an impromptu- ventriloquial act. —just to mention a few.

3 Little Pigs In Madison Revue

These three little porkers who set the movie world on its ear two years ago when they grabbed front page space and four star reviews away from the male and female beauties of the screen, are in Mansfield today. "The Three Little Pigs" are in the Walt Disney Academy Award revue, which brings five prize-winning Disney features to the Madison in one picture. The revue, designed to show the development of colored pictures, is made up of the five Disney short subjects which won the academy award for five consecutive years. It will be shown for the remainder of the week.

Book of the Week

"STRANGERS," by Claude Houghton; (Macmillan; $2.50.)

* * *

One of the most gifted present day English novelists is Claude Houghton who so far has had three novels published in America —which this department has seen. The latest of these is "Strangers," published today.

None has been strictly "an English novel." "Strangers" comes nearest to the norm, and even it has its distinguishing features. It is wholly a novel of psychology, but one in which the analysis is conducted in human terms, in which there has been a certain amount of simplifying along the lines which life uses. For however complicated the circumstances, life seems usually to cut them through in the end.

"Strangers" is the story of one man, Hector Grantham, and two women — Hilda, his wife, and Crystal, his mistress. There are a good many subsidiary characters, a few of which are too deliberately inserted into the fabric.

The story is so simple it seems bald. Hector has a business which he acquired nonchalantly and runs in the same spirit. He has a flair for choosing silks, and does little but just that. He has a house in Kent, and even his office is unconventionally fitted out as a drawing room. He has Hilda and three children. He has also the memory of Hilda as she was when he married her, and now sees her as she is after three children. His senses have ceased to leap at the sight of her, but a part of him is still and irrevocably in love with her.

Then Crystal. She is exactly half his age, and he has met her only because her father was his friend, and when he died sent his daughter to Grantham for help. Two years of help end suddenly in the realization that Grantham, with one side of himself, loves Crystal. And that this love, however sincere and inevitable, does not affect his love for Hilda.

Mr. Houghton is a long while resolving this situation, and his method is really not resolution, but severance. But it has its logic.—By J. S.

Climate Here Is Help To Catarrh

Experts Say Three in Every Five People Suffer From This Disease

Experts state that catarrh is so prevalent in this section that as many as three out of every five people suffer from the disease and its distressing symptoms, which are dripping into the throat of a poisonous, offensive substance, a great deal of which is swallowed, and enters the stomach, discharges from the nose of large quantities of this same substance, pains in the head, huskiness, dryness and soreness of nasal passages and throat, weak, watery eyes and the like.

World's Tonic offers catarrh sufferers something they have long needed, that is, a systemic treatment to help fight catarrh. It helps relieve almost at once the distress of catarrh in the nose and throat and at the same time helps fight the disease within the system, where it originates, and is designed to help rid the system of catarrh, also chronic constipation, liver, kidney, bladder and bowel trouble. It has brought astonishing results in many cases. World's Tonic, the new systemic treatment that is doing so much good in Mansfield and vicinity, is sold by Central Drug Store and all other good druggists. (A-154).

THEATER

Disney Revue.

The Madison goes into a double feature bill for three days, starting today. Walt Disney's revue of his annual Academy Award winners will bring back to Mansfield in one picture, the five "Silly Symphonies" that have won the award each year since 1932. The film has been compiled largely to show the progress of technicolor, starting with the first Disney feature "Flowers and Trees," that was made in colors. It includes the popular "Three Little Pigs," "The Tortoise and The Hare," "Three Orphan Kittens" and "The Country Cousin," which won last year's award for the best short feature. A Hopalong Cassidy picture is the second feature.

Disturbing Thought.

It would be somewhat disconcerting to have your butler suddenly inform you that he had to have a little time off in order to make his first speech in Parliament, but that is what happened in "The Baroness and The Butler," co-starring William Powell as the butler and Annabella, charming French actress, as the baroness. Henry Stephenson, Joseph Schildkraut and Helen Westley are in the supporting ranks. Annabella is making her American debut in this picture, which deftly combines romance and a revolution in the social scheme. Incidentally, Annabella's last name is Charpentier (Charpon-tee-air), which is much too difficult for a movie moniker, and since she doesn't want to change it, she just doesn't use any. The picture opens at the Ohio today.

Crack-Up Thrills.

Starting Friday at the Majestic is an auto racing picture which boasts no less than 15 crack-ups in various scenes. It is the story of a bitter rivalry existing between two bus companies, one of them headed by a girl, played by Beverly Roberts, and the other by Gordon Oliver. Dick Purcell is featured opposite Miss Roberts in "Daredevil Drivers." Purcell is a recognized auto racer and the rivalry along the highways gives opportunities for trick driving. The second feature is a Western, Tom Keene in "The Law In Command."

Romantic Comedy.

STOCKS RALLY FEEBLY DURING LIGHT TRADING

Wall Street Awaits Decisions On Freight Rate, Tax Revision Bill.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Rallying efforts were feeble in today's stock market and most leaders continued to tilt moderately lower.

The turnover was only slightly ahead of yesterday's sluggish proceedings. Declines of fractions predominated near the second hour.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Foreign securities markets generally were on the downside.

Trading forces, brokers said, apparents were content to hold commitments at a minimum pending the freight rate decision and more definite indications as to what congress would do with the tax revision bill.

Market analysts found further confirmatory evidence of the lengthy business slide in the Dun & Bradstreet figures on bank clearings for the week ended Wednesday, disclosing the 16th consecutive decline under the comparable 1937 period. The total showed a loss of 26.5 per cent.

Recent slackness of stock dealings was exemplified by the official exchange report revealing members' collateral borrowings in March were down more than $18,000,000 from February.

COUNTY RELIEF SET-UP SCORED

State Investigator Asserts There's No System in Handling Cases.

sioners must pay their debts and operate for four more months on less than $25,000.

Industrial Slump Affect Cited.

Dawson blamed the recession in industrial activity for the rising relief costs which have placed a $35,000 debt on the county in the past two months. As long as unemployment continues, families will have to be fed and clothed, he said.

From an average county relief bill of $3,500 last summer, costs began to mount in November and last month reached $25,000, highest since the county and state took over the relief burden three years ago.

County relief administration is under the commissioners and Earl A. Nist who was appointed relief director early last month with instructions to pare relief costs.

Admitting that costs are on the increase, Nist said applications for help continue to swamp relief headquarters on Orange street and that many of the families are in actual need.

GETS CITY POST

Elyrian Named Technical Aid At Sewage Plant.

The employment of James R. Collier of Elyria to serve as technical supervisor at the city's sewage disposal plant for a period of one year was announced today by Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert.

Collier, superintendent of the sewage plant at Elyria, will be retained in a part-time capacity. The contract being drafted today by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward calls for a minimum of one visit a week.

In the capacity of technician, Collier will assist J. R. Turner, newly appointed plant superintendent, instructing him concerning various technical duties connected with the plant operations.

City council, in creating the temporary technician post as recommended by the state health board, provided a salary of $125 per month. Styert said that Collier has been making week-end visits to the plant since Turner was appointed by Mayor Hunter Feb. 5, and that the contract will probably be dated from Feb. 1.

PUSH HUNT FOR LOST AIRLINER

Only the most optimistic believed that the object might be the aluminum colored plane, and it was impossible to tell, even with powerful glasses, whether the lights were signal flares or not.

A raging river, outgrowth of the storm that engulfed the plane, prevented searchers today from reaching the 200-foot scratch on the snow-covered mountain A party of 20 managed to get within a mile and a half of it The scar was on the course the plane was flying when last sighted, about 12 30 a m. (9:30 PST) by Mrs. C. G. Landry, wife of a power company official in that area.

The Fresno county sheriff's office said it had checked, and believed authentic, reports that the plane set off a flare which lighted up the area near the scar about 12:40 Tuesday night. This was 10 minutes after Mrs. Landry reported she heard a plane at only 500 feet altitude in that vicinity.

Search directors at Fresno began mobilization of 22 planes to scan the rugged snow-packed mountains where the transcontinental and western air luxury ship disappeared, Associated Press said

Search Canyon.

Armed with definite information that the missing liner flew in the rugged mountain district near Northfork, Calif., for at least eight minutes before it disappeared Tuesday midnight, ground crews of the Sierra National forestry service searched both sides of the river's canyon today.

"Everything points to the plane having been forced down somewhere in the canyon near the Southern California Edison Generation plant No. 3 on the north fork of the San Joaquin river," O. W. Coyle, chief pilot of the western region of TWA declared

The report of a road construction crew of the company which heard the plane's motors indicated that the luxury liner had crashed

"We heard a plane pass over at 12.40 a. m (EST) Wednesday. Then we heard a sharp crash" was the report from the crew, which was repairing a mountain road in the Shaver Lake Region, International News dispatches said.

The peaks in this section of California reach a height of 10,000 feet.

Spokesmen for the CCC said they would 150 additional searchers in the area today, bringing the total number to more than 250

Pilot Graves' wife, Elva mother of a four-year-old daughter, refused to give up hope that her husband would not be found alive

"I don't know why I feel this way," she said, "but I do. I just believe that John will come through all right. He always has."

Graves was a veteran of the airways. He had more than 7,000 hours in the air to his credit, and more than a million miles.

Other persons aboard the plane were C. W. Wallace, co-pilot; Stewardess Martha Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. L. B Watts, San Francisco; Victor Krause of Lincoln, Neb., and H. M Salisbury, TWA pilot on leave will also find them much easier to read, for that reason.

Not only does this new "face" represent a costly change, but it involves a tremendous change in equipment. Thousands of tiny brass molds, called matrices, are used in the composition of type. These brass "mats" are held in heavy forms from which the letter or sign is needed, one of them drops into the form for the line of type. All of these must be discarded when the type is changed.

Taking them out and replacing them with new "mats" or molds, is a meticulous job requiring infinite patience. A large force of men will work throughout the week-end in order to have the new type ready for use in Monday's issue of The News-Journal.

To the average reader all types look pretty much alike. There are important differences, however, which are apparent to the inexpert eye when the two types are set side by side for comparison, and readers of the News-Journal will have that opportunity on Monday when our new "Spring dress" is flaunted beside the old

But watch out for the new "outfit" Monday—we hope you'll like it and we hope it will be a saving on the old "peepers."

TRADERS AWAIT ICC VERDICT ON FREIGHT RATES

Wall Street Also Watches For Definite Hints of Business Upturn.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Most stocks took a slight downward slant today as the market prolonged its indecisive drift in a narrow course.

Traders continued to restrict operations while they waited for the ICC decision on a freight rate boost and definite hints of a business turn toward recovery.

Other leading markets also stayed in a rut. Most commodities held to a fairly even line. Bonds were narrow and quiet.

The "Iron Age" noted steel manufacturers were finding indications of improvement, although new orders have not increased sufficiently to expand the industry's operations.

A sharp spring rise in motor production, analysts held, would be necessary to pull most producers back to profit-making levels.

JOIN IN U. S. USED CAR WEEK

Mansfield Auto Dealers Plan For Campaign Opening In Nation Saturday.

Mansfield auto dealers will join with dealers throughout the nation in National Used Car Exchange week, according to plans made yesterday at a meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The one-week campaign, designed to stimulate used car sales and start the wheels of recovery in motion, starts Saturday, March 5 and continue through March 12.

R. E. Moorhead, president of the Richland County Auto Dealers association, named a committee of R. B. Gardner, chairman; A. L. Colby, Weston Cutter and Peter Weidner, to arrange for the campaign in this county.

Moorhead told the group that 43 per cent of the nation's business emanates from the auto industry and the material used in it, and that one of the basic steps in business recovery is stimulation of auto sales.

Gardner said that a parade of used cars will be staged either Saturday or Monday afternoon. Dealers will take their new cars off the sales floors and replace them with used cars while outdoor lots will be made ready for use next week if the weather permits.

An effort in being made to have the state Bureau of Motor Vehicles set forward by five days the time for displaying 1938 license tags, so that persons buying used cars next week will not have to tranfer their licenses twice within the month, the dealers said.

eliminated the city now had the opportunity to go outside the corporation limits for an experienced sewage plant engineer, if the need should arise in the future.

Another change added the duties of assistant operator to that of record clerk at the plant, with a pay boost of $300 annually, raising the salary of the record clerk to $1,500 a year.

The legislation renews an ordinance creating the sewage plant positions and fixing the salaries of employes, another authorizes the employment of a plant technician and a third calls for the transfer of $1,500 to pay the salary of the technical supervisor. The measures were given first and second readings in two special sessions in the past two weeks.

The legislation in effect approved the mayor's appointment of J. R. Turner as head of the sewage plant at the salary of $2,500 a year, and authorized Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert to employ a plant technician on a part-time basis at $1,500 for the next year, after which Turner will be required to pass an examination before the state board of health.

The sewage plant controversy dates back to the appointment by Mayor Hunter of Turner as sewage plant engineer to replace J. P. Sotherland who resigned Feb. 5 at the mayor's request. The state health department had recommended employment of an experienced sewage plant engineer, setting up requirements which neither Sotherland, who held the job for nearly a year, nor Turner could fulfill.

The health board agreed, however, to the appointment of Turner if council provided technical supervision at the plant.

Renew Hunt For Plane

SEARCHERS PIN HOPES ON SHIP LANDING INTACT

Believe Liner Carrying Two Mansfielders, May Be Down In Eight Feet of Snow.

WEATHER HAMPERS HUNT

Deep Scar in Side of Snow-Covered Mountain Focal Point of Search.

Searching parties hunting the missing TWA airliner carrying two Mansfielders, which vanished in the mountains of California Tuesday night, pinned their only hope today on the fact that the plane may have landed intact in the eight feet of snow which blanketed mountains and fields, United Press dispatches said.

Search for Tracy Dirlam, 21, and his sister, Mary Lou, 19, who were among the nine persons aboard the ship, was resumed early this morning with army and commercial planes joining the auto parties that started the search yesterday but had to stop last night because of the weather.

Students' Father Better.

At the Dirlam home today, Jay Dirlam, father of the missing boy and girl, was slightly improved. It was his critical illness from a heart attack earlier in the week which started the two students at Leland-Stanford university on their plane trip homeward.

Dirlam has not been told of the fate of the plane carrying his children, as physicians believed that the shock might be fatal.

Tracy and Mary Lou, both graduates of Mansfield high school and popular in younger circles, left San Francisco on the ill-fated plane at 9:30 p. m. (EST) Tuesday. The liner, which was routed for Kansas City, was forced to change its course at the take-off and head toward Los Angeles instead, where it was to continue eastward.

TWA Sees Hope.

Donald Black, spokesman for TWA, said early this morning that there was "a possibility that the plane had landed intact in a snow covered mountain meadow." He contended that because of deep snows it would be difficult for passengers and crew to get from the plane to any point of communication.

Both Associated Press and International News dispatches said that a deep scar on the side of a snow-covered mountain, high up in the Sierras, was a focal point for several searching parties. Shortly before nightfall yesterday, searchers sighted what appeared to be a deep scar on the side of the mountain, with mysterious

Pershing Shows Little Improvement Over Night.

TUCSON, Ariz. —(AP) — Physicians maintained a close watch today on the condition of Gen. John J. Pershing, whose steady improvement slowed, although not sufficiently to arouse apprehension.

"The general is not yet out of danger," said Dr. Roland Davison.

Improvement shown by the 77-year-old World war commander late last night had not maintained the rate set in the previous 48 hours. But Dr. Davison said that "should not be interpreted as offering occasion for alarm."

NATIONAL USED CAR EXCHANGE WEEK IS UNDER WAY . . .

You may not even need cash to make the switch to a better car—your present car may cover the down payment.

News-Journal to Have 'Face' Lifted--New Type to Make It Easier On Readers' Eyes

THE NEWS-JOURNAL will have its face lifted and put on new raiment over the week-end, and on Monday—look out for us—we will step out in such new finery as will please even the most critical reader.

Our new "face" will be a tremendous saving on readers' eyes and will give the paper a more clean-cut appearance.

We are, just in case you want to get technical, changing to all new type, an Intertype Regal, eight point letters on an eight and a half point slug.

That doesn't mean much to you? We'll explain. At present we are using an eight point letter on an eight point slug. So, by using an eight and a half point slug, there will be additional white space between lines. And white space not only makes a paper easier to read but gives it a cleaner appearance.

In choosing the new type our first consideration was legibility, a most important factor in this hit and run age of reading, when newspapers are scanned on buses, in autos, on street corners and in poorly lighted rooms and corners.

You will probably notice first, when you see the new type, that the letters are larger. They are. You

ASSEMBLY ENDS SESSION WITH BITTER CLASH

Votes 4 Millions to Agencies 12 Millions for Relief Work in Counties.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — An uproarious legislative melee, marked by a bitter, verbal clash in the senate, brought to an end early today the three-month old special session of the 92nd Ohio general assembly.

Called originally by Gov. Martin L. Davey to appropriate $2,800,000 for state departments and institutions and $7,500,000 for poor relief, the legislature:

1. Appropriated $4,468,000 for numerous agencies but very little for the executive departments which the governor sought primarily to assist; and

2. Granted $12,000,000 to counties, municipalities and townships for relief in 1938, a sum which legislative leaders contended was adequate for only half the year.

After weeks of debate in which only $1,431,000 was appropriated, the legislature shifted into high gear on the final day and voted expenditures totaling $3,036,000.

Cuts Off Million.

Appropriations on the last day actually mounted to $4,468,000, but at 2:35 a. m. today the senate rescinded its approval of a $1,000,000 grant for building improvements at state welfare institutions.

This action came as the climax of sharp exchange of personalities between Senators Keith Lawrence of Cleveland, Democratic floor leader, and Horace W. Baggott (D-Montgomery).

Lawrence charged that the senate approved the bill under a misapprehension. He said it permitted expenditure of the entire $1,000,000 in a single county, instead of dividing it among a dozen or more state institutions.

Baggott, in turn, charged that the opposition of Lawrence and other Cuyahoga county senators was motivated by a desire to perpetuate the present system of caring for mentally ill persons in private institutions at state expense.

Sen. Harold D Nichols (D-Clermont), siding with Baggott, said the bill would "break up the out-patient 'racket' in Cuyahoga county."

The senate rescinded approval of the bill by a vote of 11 to 3, with about half the members not voting.

The senate quit work at 2.50 a. m. after the house had gone home at 1:10. Both branches, while planning no more working sessions, will meet perfunctorily within a few days to permit their

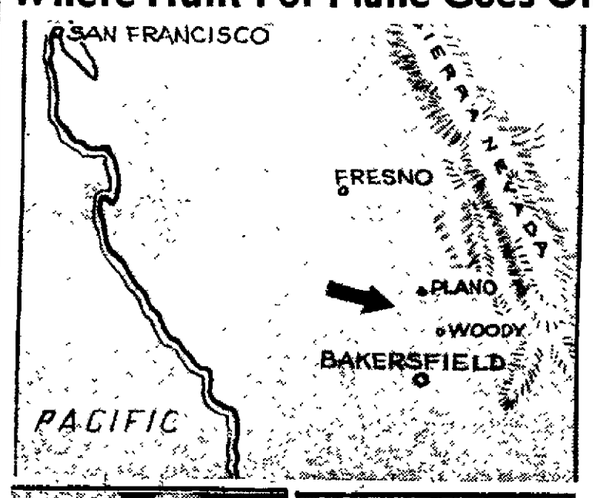
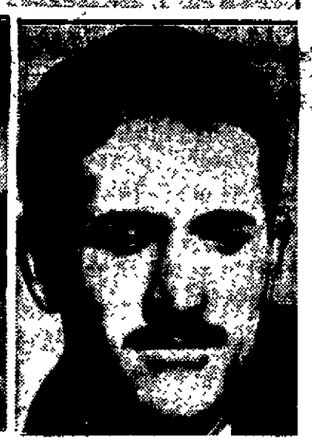
Where Hunt For Plane Goes On





Search for the missing TWA airliner on which two Mansfielders were passengers went on today, the map above showing the exact locality in which the plane is believed to be down. Lower pictures show Martha Wilson, whose home is in Bridgeport, O., stewardess on the missing plane, and John Graves, pilot. The Mansfielders aboard were J. Tracy Dirlam, 21, and his sister, Mary Lou, 19. They were on their way home from Leland Stanford university, called here by the illness of their father, J. N. Dirlam.

'Missing' Records Found In State Liquor Offices

Miller Tells Auditor They Were Taken From Stinchcomb 'Without His Knowledge.'

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The missing liquor warehouse records sought by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson were found today in the state liquor department enforcement division.

Ferguson said he was informed by Liquor Director James W. Miller that the records were obtained from G. R. Stinchcomb, head of Franklin Warehouses, Inc., without Miller's knowledge.

Concerning Sen. Verner E. Metcalf's assertion that State Democratic Chairman Francis W. Poulson was "using" the state auditor in an attempted "whitewash" of "the Stinchcomb liquor affair," Ferguson said he would not comment until he had studied the official record of the remarks.

The senate investigating committee, of which Metcalf was a member, obtain testimony last week that Stinchcomb's firm was doing 80 per cent of the liquor warehousing business for Ohio.

'Poor Time to Whitewash.'

Metcalf told the senate yesterday:

Metcalf said Ferguson had refused to co-operate with the graft-hunting committee, asserting:

"He evaded coming before the committee. He refused to co-operate with us. I am charging him with bad faith and unless he can exonerate himself, the people of the state have a right to know what's going on."

FINAL FLING?

Mercury to Drop Tonight, But Climb Upward Friday.

Winter is due for what may be its final fling tonight, the weather forecast predicting temperatures as low as 10 above zero in northern Ohio.

Clear skies will accompany the cold wave, and warmer weather will reach Ohio Friday and Saturday, the forecasters said.

The cold, which blew in last night from the northwest, dropped the mercury 23 degrees to 13 above early today

Newsboy Makes Own Headline, Shot To Death In Hold-Up

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Twenty-year-old Jack Legan, Plain Dealer newsboy and circulation employe who welcomed a "hot story" to stimulate sales, provided the "Page 1" headline himself today—in death.

A single bullet from a robber's gun killed the "newsie" when he dashed into a restaurant in the city's colored district to place a stack of first edition papers on a counter.

Witnesses said Legan apparently died without realizing he had happened upon a robbery in progress. Depositing the papers, he whirled to return to the street without glancing toward two colored gunmen.

Before Legan entered, the restaurant proprietor, Blaje Angeloff, 46, had knocked a cash box from the hands of one of the robbers. As Angeloff engaged the intruder in a scuffle, the other gunman opened fire. Three bullets missed Angeloff.

Then Legan romped in the robber who had failed to shoot Angeloff swung his gun toward Legan and fired, killing him.

The pair fled with about $50, Angeloff said.

CALLS COUNTY RELIEF SET-UP JUST 'MIXUP'

State Investigator Charges Lack of System in Handling Work.

C. M. Dawson, special state relief investigator who began a check of Richland county's January relief accounts today, described the relief situation here as "the worst in northcentral Ohio."

Examining the county's relief books at the county auditor's office in the courthouse, Dawson charged the set-up here is "a mix-up," and being operated "without any definite organization."

"I don't think the plan used here for administering relief has ever been approved by the state, but this is the first time an examination of the county set-up has ever been made by the state auditor," he said.

Plans Three-Day Study.

Declining to comment further on recommendations for changes in the plan, he added "that will have to wait until we learn more about what's being done here." He said examination of the books may require several days The report will be submitted to the state auditor's office and then to the Richland county commissioners who are in charge of relief administration.

Commissioners, who were handed the relief burden in January under a new state law, had admitted they had no solution to the problem and three days ago went to Newark to study the Licking county relief set-up in their search for an answer.

The county appropriated no funds for relief at the beginning of the year depending on state allocations to provide for the indigent in the county as they did last summer.

The county receives $5,500 a month now from the state, but in order to assure receipt of the funds had to put up half that amount in a lump covering a six-months period.

Under the plan, the county would have approximately $50,000 available for direct relief the first half of the year. More than half that amount has been used already, however, and the commis-

Levine Refuses to Admit Payment of Ransom.

(By Associated Press)

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—Police expectantly awaited a "break" in the case of 12-year-old Peter Levine, missing one week today, as reports persisted contact had been made with the supposed kidnapers.

The father, Murray Levine, refused pointblank to admit whether he had paid the $60,000 investigators said was demanded in a third ransom note.

The New York attorney, who has remained at home here with his wife and 10-year-old daughter, intimated a statement would be forthcoming soon. He again appealed to police to let him handle the case unaided.

Levine complained "crank" letters and telegrams had left the family "tired and distraught."

DAVEY VENTS IRE ON SPARKS, ORDERS OUSTER

Tells Jaster to Do Away With Position as Penalty for 'Hot Mix' Testimony.

CALLS HIM 'DISLOYAL'

Governor Suggests Engineer Look to 'Co-Conspirators' As He Turns Him Out.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(INS)— Harry Sparks, bituminous paving expert ordered discharged from the state highway department today by Governor Davey, indicated he would fight dismissal in the courts.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Dismissal of Harry Sparks, engineer in the state highway department who testified against the state administration at recently concluded senate hearings, was ordered today by Governor Davey.

"He is obviously unfit for any position of public trust," Davey said in a letter to Highway Director John Jaster. "Therefore, I request that you abolish his position forthwith and let him look for his succor to his co-conspirators."

Follows Jaster's Report.

Davey's letter was in reply to a report from Jaster in which the highway director categorically denied that, as charged by Sparks, a "gentlemen's agreement" had been made between Jaster and C W. Simpson, official of the Hot Mix Paving association, limiting the price to be bid on T-135 type hot mix.

Sparks is a civil service employe 60 years old.

"It was bad enough for him (Sparks) to sit idly by all these years and make no protest about hot mix prices," Davey wrote Jaster, "if he really thought they were too high. This was especially bad in view of the fact he had developed this program, prepared specifications and developed the estimates.

"If the prices were too high, he is the one who must be to blame.

"It was bad enough that he waited until weeks after the Scripps-Howard newspapers had started their scurrilous campaign against the highway department, before indicating that he wanted to talk to you.

Calls Charges 'Falsehoods.'

"It was even worse that he should have been in collusion with these . . . newspapers before he had the decency to talk to his chief It was equally bad that he waited until all the contracts were let for last year and the work practically finished before he expressed an opinion."

Davey went on to say that the "worst thing about his case" was that in a letter released to the newspapers he should "resort to complete falsehood" in charging Jaster with entering into collusion with the Hot Mix Bituminous Producers.

"I have always believed implicitly in your integrity," Davey assured Jaster, "and when you say that his statement is a complete falsehood, I believe it"

The governor concluded by declaring Sparks had "proven himself to be disloyal to the public" and "has shown himself to be surprisingly inefficient" "He is obviously unfit for any position of public trust," Davey declared.

LOS ANGELES CUT OFF FROM WORLD BY RAGING WATER

10,000 Homeless as Torrents Roar Over Cities; Damage Hits 30 Millions; Ten Drowned at Santa Ana As River Leaves Banks.

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(INS)—(Via Short Wave Radio to New York)—It started to rain again today in sodden and stricken southern California, bringing new fears to Los Angeles and nearby communities, already struggling under a terrific four-day storm.

(Copyright by United Press)

LOS ANGELES—(By Radio Telephone to San Francisco)—A devastating flood swept through southern California today from the rain-drenched mountains to the ocean, drowning dozens of persons and causing damage estimated at $25,000,000.

As suddenly as it swirled in during the night, it began receding shortly after dawn. At 4 a. m. (PST) the weather bureau in this stricken and isolated city announced: "The crisis has passed."

Dozens were drowned; thousands of families fled before the onslaught of waters swirling down from the mountains through the streets of metropolitan Los Angeles and its far-flung suburbs, and many were marooned and in grave danger.

It was a disaster of the first order. The Emergency Relief council was convened to cope with the worst crisis since it was organized during the Long Beach earthquake in 1933.

Los Angeles was isolated and cut off from all communications except short wave radio. And by radio, nearby towns sent frantic calls for help.

Ten persons were reported drowned early today when the Santa Ana river went over its banks north of Riverside and reverted to the channel from which it was diverted in 1862. Santa Ana is 40 miles south of Los Angeles.

An amateur radio operator said he had intercepted a message from the sheriff's office in Riverside asking for doctors and medical supplies.

The message mentioned "casualties" at a school house. Riverside was cut off from telephonic and telegraphic communication with the outside world and without power and lights.

Homes Buried Under Debris.

Collapses of pedestrian bridges and landslides in the hills that buried homes under tons of dirt contributed to a rapidly increasing death toll.

It was estimated that the dead already totaled 35; that from 5,000 to 10,000 families were homeless refugees; that property damage would be between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000.

Back in the scenic foothills, mountain streams had filled flood control reservoirs to overflowing and there was a peril that any one of several dams might crumble and cause a worse disaster.

Heartening News.

Rains abated early this morning and only light showers were forecast for the day, which was heartening news to the thousands

BATES ASKS FOR 5 MORE POLICE

Chief Proposes Addition of 2 Plain Clothes Men and 3-Man Traffic Squad.

The annual pleas for additional men for the police department took on added momentum today with a request from Police Chief Meade K. Bates asking city council to grant him five new patrolmen.

The request, in the form of an ordinance, asks that council provide for the employment of two additional plain clothes officers and three more patrolmen, which would add about $7,000 to the $50,000 annual payroll of the department.

Bates said he had talked to members of the finance committee of council and that they had taken the request under advisement. He explained that should the proposal be granted, the two additional plain clothes officers would augment the detective force which now has only two officers, although one patrolman has been serving in that department on patrolman's wages.

"There are so many old cases in our detective files that we don't have a chance to work on most of them," the chief said. "With two additional officers, we could clean up some of the old cases that are continually piling up on us"

If the three additional patrolman are placed at the disposal of

MOVES UP DATE

State Allows Use of New Auto Tags on Saturday.

Motorists will be permitted to display their 1938 license tags on and after Saturday, instead of March 10 as originally planned, it was announced today by Frank West, chief of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The change was made when representatives of the Automobile Dealers association asked for the earlier date as a means of co-operating with National Used Car week, which starts Saturday and runs through March 12. As the result persons purchasing used cars next week can use 1938 plates immediately instead of transferring the old plates for only a few days' use.

Mansfield auto dealers are joining in the observance which is already under way here.

Fund Admits Girl Scouts as Agency – Sets Dates for Drive

Mansfield Girl Scouts will become an agency of the Mansfield Community Fund this year as the result of action taken last night at a meeting of the executive committee of the fund.

The committee also set the two-week period from May 9 to 21 for the annual fund campaign when the city raises money for character building and charitable agencies.

Philip H. Ober, president of the fund's executive committee, said that the Girl Scout council, of which Mrs. Roger Black is chairman, had petitioned for admittance to the fund several weeks ago, asking slightly under $1,000 to finance a part-time program.

Because of the work that is being done by Girl Scouts and increasing interest in the project over the country, the committee decided to make it one of the character building and good citizenship agencies that function through fund, Ober said.

Action on the amount to be allowed the Girl Scouts will be taken by the budget committee when it meets later in the month

Paul Snyder of the Cub Scouts, appeared before the committee last night and asked that a small supplemental amount be allowed the Boy Scouts this year so that his group of younger boys could expand their work. At present there are 67 Cub Scouts—boys between 9 and 12 years—in the organization. Boys under 12 are not eligible for Boy Scout work. No action was taken on the request until it can be discussed with the budget committee.

Applicants for Police, Fire, Janitor Jobs Take Tests Tomorrow, Saturday.

Eighty Mansfielders today had qualified to take civil service examinations for policemen, firemen and janitor jobs tomorrow and Saturday at the city building, Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the civil service commission, said today.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fifty years ago eight out of ten Americans bitten by poisonous snakes died. Now, out of a few hundred bitten each year, there seldom is a death.

It is mostly due to the fact that a Brooklyn boy was walking through a swamp about 40 years ago and saw two snakes crawl out of sight under some rubbish.

That sight is what first interested Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, the famous snake man of the Bronx Zoo, in snakes He cannot explain why, he says, but the fact remains. He told the story when the American Institute of the City of New York gave him a fellowship

Young Ditmars not only became interested in snakes, but in poisonous ones.

When the Bronx Zoo opened its first snake house, Ditmars had a better collection than the Zoo. So he was made curator.

Since then he has been a leading spirit in research on snake venoms, collaborating with scientists from all over the world. Serum for snake bite was the first practical result. It saves lives.

Ditmars' fellow scientists have gone on to discover, in snake venom, an effective substance to control hemorrhage and a painkiller which in some cases is as effective as morphine, but not habit-forming.

BRITAIN 'PURGES' WAR HISTORY

Orders Reprint Because of Author's Pot Shots.

LONDON — (AP) — A "purged" edition of the latest volume of Britain's official "History of the War" is being rebound for fresh release.

His Majesty's stationery office had to recall all the copies and get the introduction rewritten after civilians who had served on the transportation staff took exception to the verbal pot shots of Sir James Edmonds.

Sir James, in he introduction, charged the civilians with lack of discipline. He also asserted that flight of civilians in uniform created much of the confusion on roads behind the front line.

CONTRACT FOR 2 CRUISERS LET

City Buys 2 Fords for Police Department at Cost of $900 Each.

R. E. Moorhead, Ford agency, today had been awarded the contract for two new police cruisers by the city board of control, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert announced.

The successful bidder quoted a price on a four-door Ford sedan of $900, or a total of $1,800 on two cars, and allowed $150 on a used police car to be turned in by the city.

Styert said that on recommendation from Police Chief Meade K. Bates that the Ford was the most serviceable car for police work that the Moorhead bid was accepted over a proposal submitted by the Mohican Chevrolet company, which quoted identical prices.

The purchase of the two new cars and the retiring of a two-year-old cruiser now in use will give the police department one additional machine.

The contract calls for the delivery of the two cars equipped with bullet-proof windshield and glass in front doors, tire guards, gunwells and other accessories for use as an armored car.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Thursday, March 3. "We would see Jesus." Read John 12:20-22.

There must have been many such men in the Palestine of that day.

Why did they want to see him? Curiosity, crowd, psychology, the herd instinct, or some vague hope that here might be a man who could help them and give them peace?

His first disciples tried to rescue their master from the crowds. Ever since that day he has been spirited away by his followers and surrounded by commentaries, historical recearches, theological creeds, church ceremonies, so that it often seems impossible reach him.

But one of the best New Testament scholars of our time said, after a lifetime of painstaking study of the Gospels, "There is nothing necessary to a true understanding of Jesus which may not be had by anyone who is willing to read the Gospel of Mark in English with open eyes." The words are reassuring, but not so easy as they seem. The hard part of this simple sentence is its last three words, "with open eyes." So often we don't wish to see what is there.

Prayer: .Grant unto us, O God, boldness in our access to Christ, sincerity and humility in his presence, and the knowledge that having seen him our life is preserved. Amen.

ACQUITTED IN JURY TRIAL ON DRIVING CHARGE

Mansfielder Freed on Second Ballot by Municipal Court Panel.

Glenn E. Rose, 36, of 57 Howard street, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol was acquitted yesterday afternoon in municipal court by a jury of 10 men and two women.

The verdict came after the jury had been out only 35 minutes at the close of the second day of the trial, the first to be heard by a jury in municipal court in nearly a year

It was learned that two ballots had been cast with the first a 11 to 1 vote for acquittal.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, in instructing the jury when the defense had rested its case after presenting 23 witnesses said, "in this case you are not to concern yourself with the problem of determining the cause or fault of this collision, because that question is not an issue in this trial. You are to establish the offense charged."

Result of Collision.

The charges against Rose were filed by Lawrence R. Allison, 148 West Third street, driver for the Michigan Motor Freight company, Detroit, following a collision Feb. 15, on route 39, about one mile south of Shelby.

The defense maintained that Rose was not a habitual drinker and that he had not drunk any intoxicating liquors the night of the accident More than 10 of the witnesses subpoenaed were called to testify to his sobriety.

The prosecution however contended that Rose had been intoxicated. They based their argument on the testimony of Dr. Herman Gunn of Ashland, who had made an alcohol test of the defendant's blood shortly after he had been brought to the police station.

Dr. Gunn testified that the amount of alcohol shown in the test was enough to affect Rose's mental faculties. Asked if this could be called intoxication, he replied yes.

Rose was arrested by Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe of the state highway patrol and brought to the Mansfield police station. He was later released on a recognizance bond.

ENDS SURVEY

Inspector Urges Full-Time Protection at Crossings.

Another step toward compliance with the city's request for full-time protection at all partially guarded grade crossings had been taken today as W. E. Harrington, inspector for the state utilities commission, completed a traffic survey at five unprotected grades here.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said Harrington would recommend to the commission that full-time protection be provided by the railroads at four of the crossings. The Fifth street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, he informed the mayor, would be provided with full time watchman service when the Westinghouse resumes its third shift. The crossing is now protected from 5:30 a. m. until 10:30 p. m.

The crossings where full-time protection would be recommended he said were the Erie on North Diamond street, the Baltimore and Ohio and Erie on North Mulberry street, and the Erie double crossing on North Main street.

ADVERTISES FOR JOB

BROOKFIELD, Mo. — (U.P.) — Mrs. R. L. Perrin, who said that she was in need of work, inserted the following front page advertisement in a newspaper. "I am prepared to do paper hanging, laundry, curtain stretching, and painting."

A Farmer's Diary

March 2.

TODAY was cool and damp. The robins and songsparrows sung and moved about with but little zest. Crows were silent and even the rugged jay tempered his strong, ambitious call to much milder notes

I saw a horse and buggy move slowly up a deeply rutted road. The coat of the dark bay was steaming and the cruel breast strap seemed to gall his shoulders The buggy pitched and tossed, slipping out of one deep hole into another. The occupants were hidden and protected by a rubber apron which fitted over the dash board and buttoned half way up each front bow. The lines protruded through two holes at the middle of this storm-front.

Thirty years ago a young man who owned a well groomed horse, a shiny, rubber tired buggy and a robe of gaudy colors was a gallant to be reckoned with in any neighborhood. He came, he saw, he conquered. Those were the days when time upon the highway was not so valuable; when one could wrap the lines firmly around the whip socket and let Dobbin trudge along.

Yet, where the roads are bad, at certain seasons of the year, an old fashioned buggy has its uses, even yet. There was a kind of dignity about the old vehicle's steady progress down the rutty road—a sureness to the plop, plop of the old bay horse's feet. I put up my hand in salute, as I slid past in my motor car.

CHECKS AGAIN ON UNEMPLOYED

U. S. Plans Survey in Conjunction With 1940 Census, Fletcher Says.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A complete analysis of the national unemployment problem will be undertaken in connection with the decennial census of 1940, Chairman Brooks Fletcher (D, Ohio) of the house census committee announced today.

Another innovation will be the accumulation of information on housing conditions and housing need to guide the government in its program of assistance and improving living conditions, Fletcher said.

The broad outline of the 1940 nose-counting, prepared by the census bureau and congressional leaders, has been approved by the budget bureau. Its estimated cost was not announced but it was expected to exceed $50,000,000. Approximately $39,000,000 was voted for the 1930 census of population and succeeding studies of other subjects by the census bureau.

The new bill, which Rep. Fletcher expects to be approved this year, will cover population, business, manufacturing, agriculture, irrigation and drainage, mining, employment and occupations, unemployment and housing, he said.

The unemployment study will be on a scale never before attempted and will produce more accurate statistics than those obtained in the recent voluntary registration conducted through the postal service, he said.

Firemen Control Ship Fire After Five-Hour Battle

NEW YORK—(INS)—Flames which swept the first class lounge of the liner Berengaria at her pier today gave city firemen and the liner's crew a five-hour battle before they were brought under control.

In another lounge, 138 passengers aboard the liner for her scheduled sailing today, huddled in their night clothes while the battle against the fire was in progress, uncertain whether to quit ship or see it through.

The fire was discovered at 3 a. m., and the liner's crew of 500 was turned out by fire call. They battled the flames for 20 minutes and then as the fire appeared to be spreading, the city department was summoned.

The fire appeared to have started in the carved oak ceiling of the lounge but there was no immediate explanation for it.

CHIEF JUSTICE TO PRESIDE IN PERJURY TRIAL

Griffin to Set Date After Conferring with Prosecuting, Bradley Attorneys.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — Chief Justice Burt W. Griffin of the municipal court said today he personally would conduct the preliminary hearing on the perjury warrant sworn by Gov. Martin L. Davey against Lee Bradley, self-styled "contact man" for the governor.

Judge Griffin said he would set a date for the hearing after conferring with representatives of the county prosecutor's office and attorneys for Bradley. The prosecutor's office, which thus far has not entered the case, is the legal agency to handle a felony complaint in municipal court.

The hearing was transferred to Cleveland municipal court by Common Pleas Judge Walter McMahon, who recognized an affidavit of prejudice filed by E. S. Byers and Marvin C. Harrison, Bradley's attorneys.

Say Judge Prejudiced.

Harrison and Byers had maintained that East Cleveland Municipal Judge Stanton Addams, before whom the hearing was started a week ago, was prejudiced because of a statement he allegedly made to a newspaper reporter and because he held the position of advisor to the liquidators of the Standard Trust company, a position to which he was appointed by Samuel Squire, state superintendent of banks.

Addams was quoted by the reporter as saying, "If what he says is true, Bradley belongs in the penitentiary, and if it isn't true, he is guilty of perjury and belongs there anyway."

Addams said he had made the statement "off the record" and that the sequence of the statement had been twisted, giving it a meaning he had not intended.

Also recovered in Columbus were two electric motors and a band saw stolen from the Tiro and Sulphur Springs schools in Crawford county. They were found in a junk yard.

A motor, typewriter, and a cornet stolen from the Lucas school at the same time the motion picture machine was taken have not been located.

SCHOOLS HOLD UP ON NOTES

Bristor Says Loan Won't Be Obtained Until Last Possible Minute.

With the authorization to borrow $45,323 for operation of Mansfield schools in his hands today, Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk of the board of education, said the loan would not be negotiated until he has checked the schools' actual needs and borrowing becomes an absolute necessity.

Fearing that the state may permit the debts to pile up and then leave the local boards of education "holding the bag," Bristor said he hoped it would not be necessary to borrow too heavily against future cash distributions.

The Mansfield board still owes $23,000 on notes authorized by the state in December, and has no assurance when there will be funds to retire the debt.

Meanwhile, County Superintendent Boyd Robinson prepared to distribute authorizations totaling $50,975 to 13 rural school districts in the county. A number of them were not expected to cash their notes unless they are forced to wait several weeks for more cash under the state foundation program.

Amounts to be distributed to the schools are:

Bellville, $5,940; Bloomingrove rural, $390; Butler rural, $6,453; Butler village $2,214; Cass rural, $3,944; Lexington, $6,845; Madison township, $7,467; Monroe rural, $3,005; Mifflin rural, $1,054; Plymouth village, $3,337. Springfield rural, $5,114; Washington rural, $767. Union rural, $4,439.

BLAMES BEAUTY SHOP TRAGEDY ON 'JEALOUSY'

Coroner Gives Verdict of Murder, Suicide in Romance Ended by Bullets.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Murder and suicide motivated by "jealousy and frustrated love desire"—thus Coroner S. R. Gerber recorded today the dramatic beauty shop slaying of Miss Laura Cooke, 35 by a married suitor who turned his gun upon himself.

Three horrified women customers, to one of whom Miss Cooke was giving a manicure, looked on aghast as 46-year-old Edward S. Gruneske ended tragically his four-year romance with the blond beauty operator.

Fires Three Bullets.

Gruneske fired three bullets from a revolver. The first pierced Miss Cooke's head. The second went wild. The third lodged in Gruneske's abdomen. The operator died immediately. Gruneske succumbed in a hospital.

"Honey, I'm going away; say goodbye to me," Gruneske said as he approached Miss Cooke.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, receiving the manicure, said Miss Cooke uttered a "goodbye" as she continued to polish a nail.

"Stand up and say goodbye," Gruneske ordered, and the operator replied, "I'm busy, Ed. I've said goodbye. What more can I do?"

"He stepped back and shot at her twice," Mrs. Taylor said. "Then he went into a corner and shot himself. I must have fainted."

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1938

Don't worry about John Bull. He thrives on crises and usually emerges from them with more territory.

As defined by Robert Quillen: "A republic is a land where lawmakers who can't make workable laws are supposed to tell the rest of us how to do our work better."

Hitler complains that Soviet Russia is trying to bolshevize the world while Stalin charges Germany with attempting to nazify the world—and it might be a good idea for more to join in an effort to civilize the world.

The Stench Lingers On.

GOV. MARTIN L. DAVEY may have succeded in gagging the senate investigation of his administration, but the antiseptic that will kill the stench has yet to be perfected.

The bad taste. the smell lingers on.

The senate inquiry may have had its faults. But it was getting results. It succeeded in ripping the lid from the use and the misuse of tax funds in this state. That is why Davey sought to kill the inquiry.

The inquiry may have had its faults, but it was getting results—ripping the lid from the manner in which the taxpayers' money has been handled and mishandled in this state.

And it was because it was getting results that the inquiry was killed—not because it was "unfair" or "un-American" as claimed by the governor. Few are so naive as to believe that Davey would have sought to gag the probe if it had been getting nowhere.

The legislators not only have the right to inquire into the spending of the money they appropriate, but the duty.

It is impossible to agree with the Davey assertion that "nothing has been produced" reflecting upon official conducts.

Testimony has shown that the state paid twice as much for coal as it needed to; that trucking in the liquor department was carried on at high rates through a dummy corporation; that a "hot mix" conspiracy has raided the state treasury of $2,000,000; that there have been padded expense accounts, irregularities in liquor enforcement.

This evidence demands that the investigation go on. Even though the senate committee may have been throttled. there's still the grand jury, which remains as the citizens' greatest weapon in correcting official abuses of power.

If the governor was sincere in objecting to the senate probe because he believed it unfair, he should welcome legal action.

Let Attorney General Duffy take a transcript of the testimony before a grand jury. Let there be a summoning of witnesses, cross-examination and indictments, if the evidence justifies. Then let there be trials. There is nothing un-American about that.

Too much has been told already for the remainder to be left untold.

There hardly can be such a stench without something rotten to cause it.

Ohio must know what it is.

Rights In China.

THE United States government recently informed Japan that American citizens have a right to live in China, and that it will hold Japan strictly accountable for any injury done to American life or property there, resulting from Japanese military operations.

American minds are somewhat divided about this problem, though on the whole agreeing with the government. We would nearly all like to have the Americans in China come home, and no more go over there, until the whole trouble is past.

This is what our government apparently meant to do when the war broke out. Announcement was made that after a given time Washington would not be responsible for what happened to citizens remaining in China. But there was a wave of protest and the government changed its mind. So warships and troops have been kept there.

There is probably an important factor involved besides the natural persistence of Americans in going where they like. It involves the psychology of a militarist group like the one now in control at Tokyo. There, as it was with the kaiser's Prussians when the World war started, you have aggression on the march and growing by what it feeds on. "Give 'em an inch and they'll take a mile."

If peaceful folk yield to such military insolence, there may be thereafter no living in the same world with them. Perhaps we can't, morally, back out of China, though we still wish all our people were at home.

Advice From a Traveler.

BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE. there's no place like home. The people who are surest of that seem to be the ones who roam farthest. William B. Seabrook, author, adventurer and explorer who has traveled in most of the remote regions of the earth, is also a lecturer. In the last-named role he tells American audiences such things as these:

Anyone who can't find happiness in his own back yard and among the people of his own country will never find it in Timbuctoo.

No one can live long outside his native environment.

The people in America are more interesting than any corresponding group in far-off lands.

These make pleasing lecture points, perhaps, but fortunately they are not to be taken literally and obeyed like laws. People have always moved from their native environment and have either adapted themselves to the new environment or modified it to meet their needs. They have found alien races and lands and customs fascinating material for casual observation or deep study. And often the happiness found in the back yard at home is enriched by knowledge of other regions, gained from books or talk or travel.

"It is not in line with the disciplined manner of the National Socialist Reich press to underline, explain or emphasize the Fuehrer's words," says a German editor. That may keep a lot of columnists out of jobs, but it also saves them a lot of grief.

Looking Over the Cabinet For '40 Possibilities

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—A reader asks: "Are there any presidential possibilities in the cabinet?"

Yes. At least, there are two are three would-be possibilities.

In fact, I believe that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace is entitled to classification as a sure-enough possibility.

Mind, I do not contend that he is a probability. Still, he is quite a bit talked about. At one time he was reported (unreliably, maybe) to be President Roosevelt's personal preference as his successor. Equally unreliable reports now are to the effect that the presidential choice for the Democratic nomination in 1940 is Robert H. Jackson, the justice department's new solicitor general. This somewhat deflates Secretary Wallace's boom—such as it is. Nevertheless, it is something to have been (if Wallace ever was), even temporarily, the president's own selection to follow him.

* * *

IF LAW WORKS—

It also is worth consideration that the recently-enacted farm law may actualy turn out to be beneficial to agriculture.

This law is a weird and wonderful thing. Few experts pretend to understand it. Naturally, I don't, either. But the mere circumstance that I do not understand it is no proof that it will fail to result most helpfully to our farmers. If it does, or if, by a fluke, agriculture picks up, regardless of the new law, Secretary Wallace will get a barrelful of credit for it, for the law was largely of his concoction.

To be sure, agriculture may profit at the expense of city folk. I could enter into a long discussion of this issue, but I am not dealing with economics — only with our cabinet members' respective presidential possibilities.

Anyway, if because of or in spite of the new farm bill, agriculture prospers and others do not suffer correspondingly, Secretary Wallace's presidential chances will be improved, perhaps to the extent of making him a really formidable candidate. (Unless President Roosevelt sees fit to grab the whole credit for himself, on a third term basis.)

* * *

THESE ARE OUT

If I seem to overemphasize Secretary Wallace, the reason is that he is the only presidential possibility in the cabinet list.

Secretaries of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., of War Harry H. Woodring, of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and of Labor Frances Perkins, and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, can be scratched off the scroll immediately.

None of these, dear reader, is any more a presidential possibility than you are, or than I am.

* * *

HULL'S AGE PREVENTS

Secretary of State Cordell Hull would be a bang-up possibilty if he were about ten or a dozen years younger.

He generally is recognized as the ablest cabinet member—not only the ablest cabinet member, but one of the foremost statesmen of today. As a world-wide authority he overshadows the president. Since 1924, at the latest, he has been presidentially mentioned—and deservedly.

But his Tennessee geography was wrong.

I have heard him say that, in his generation, a southern, or a border-lander, could not be president.

That time, I think, has passed. So, however, has Secretary Hull's generation.

Before he could be inaugurated, if elected, he would be past 70.

American tradition calls for younger presidents.

* * *

REMOTE POSSIBILITIES

Postmaster General James A. Farley and Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes remain as cabinet presidential possibilities — very remote, I would guess.

Farley!—an ex-boxing commissioner!—a New York machine politician!

True, I've heard him presidentially mentioned — but seriously? Hooey!

* * *

POOR LIST

Summed up:

Hull—superly "okeh" but too old.

Wallace—unlikely, but possible.

Farley—absurd.

Ickes—more than highly improbable.

Morgenthau, Swanson, Woodring, Roper, Cummings and Perkins—ridiculous.

Americans Pay the Bill Again

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Kennedy's recent pleas for a new system which would permit the establishment of a real American merchant marine may accomplish the spending of some money, but there is no inkling that any of the real difficulties in the path leading to this objective will be removed. At present the two greatest obstacles are: (1) the absurdly high cost of operating a ship under the American flag as compared with any other maritime country, and (2) union labor.

Both grow out of the well-defined policy of keeping the American standard of living high. Both for that reason are commendable, per se. But just as surely they mean that the United States will never be a real competitor in the world's shipping business. To use Woodrow Wilson's illustration, it looks as though Uncle Sam will remain in the position of a department store which uses the delivery systems of its competitors.

* * *

The writer has just returned from a cruise to Rio on the Italian liner Rex. Actually this was a good-will tour for the Italian government. When the passengers swarmed ashore in Venezeula and Brazil to see the sights, the ship's officers entertained local politicians and celebrities.

Italian flags were everywhere. The great ship was lit up like a church at night in Rio harbor. Brazilians swarmed aboard, thousands of the more important being served champagne lunches free; the less important were charged a small fee for the inspection trip.

BUT—the cost of this good-will gesture by Italy, this impressing of the Latin-Americans, was borne by Americans. Of the nearly 600 passengers all except less than a dozen were citizens of the United States. They paid for their tickets. They paid stiff prices for shore excursions. They bought Brazilian milreis at 16.40 for the dollar at the ship's bank, and found they could get almost twenty for the dollar in Rio!

On the day after the Rex left Rio the French liner Normandie arrived, making the Italian record of having the largest ship ever to enter Rio harbor one of brief standing. I don't know about the French efforts to entertain the Brazilians. Generally they are not as smart about such things as the Italians. But whether the French made equal use of the opportunity or not certainly the great liner must have impressed the people of South America generally, just as the Rex did. Such things are intangible. It is hard to measure them in any sort of units. But they have their effect. And certainly one of the effects is to increase respect for nations owning such vessels.

* * *

Now the importance of all this is enhanced by the fact that of all the countries South of Panama, Brazil, for more than twenty years, has been the best friend of the United States. At virtually every Pan-American Conference, Brazil has sided with the United States in some of the embarrassing situations which have arisen. Cuba has been just as good a friend, but her friendship has always been discounted by the insinuation that the United States controlled Cuba.

Yet here are two great European powers, seeking to ingratiate themselves with our international pal, so to speak, and doing it with their traveling salesmen's expenses all paid by American tourists!

There is no moral to the story. No one is advocating that the United States government subsidize ships of the class of the Normandie and Rex. From a practical standpoint the ships are uneconomic. Smaller ones are better. But we sacrifice something important when we give up the ocean-borne commerce of the world to competitor nations.

A New Plea For Good Government.

—By LESLIE EICHEL

GOOD government forces plan to renew efforts for state managership, county managership and city managership plans. They say that tens of millions of dollars in taxes could be saved—and much graft eliminated.

The matter is brought to a head again by the attacks on the administration of Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio. Davey has been under constant fire of good government and New Dealer forces.

By a powerful state political machine he has resisted up to this time. But testimony given in an investigation by an Ohio state senate committee into alleged "legal graft" has been so startling that a wave of resentment is rising in Ohio against political machines. And the resentment continues even though Davey has succeeded in gagging the inquiry.

Governor Davey has denied various assertions, and even has had the chief witness before the committee arrested on charges of perjury. Yet the testimony the witness gave has sunk into the consciousness of voters. This witness, Lee Bradley, who described himself as a former "contact man" for Davey, testified that he approached utility corporations and automobile manufacturers for contributions to a Davey campaign fund in return for "favors."

The governor has contended that this is untrue. He has asserted that his enemies are trying, through this investigation, to besmirch him—and his denials are vigorous.

* * *

ALL DOWN THE LINE

One sees and knows of the taxes assessed by Washington. But state, county and city taxes—much, much more in the aggregate—are put through with the average citizen unaware even of the process.

I protested some such taxes the other day, said I did not even know they were in existence. The tax assessor, however, reminded me that ignorance of the law was no excuse. But who makes such tax laws? The minor officials—and in utmost secrecy. If there were not such secrecy, the small graft that clings to state, county and municipal offices would be revealed.

I, as a taxpayer, wish there were only one government, the federal government, instead of this multiplicity of sub-divisions. Centralization of power? Nonsense. One seems to be able to get a hearing with a federal government. It has system, and a broad view, and men far removed from petty graft and local politics.

In many large cities, the minor offices are filled with the gangster type of politician. Those are the people the average citizen meets.

He shivers when he comes into contact with that scum of humanity. Is his civic life entrusted to such hands? Can there be honesty or justice with such men holding the citizenry in their power?

* * *

TESTIMONY

Let us take a look at some of the testimony given before the Ohio senate investigating committee.

A former auditor of the Ohio highway department, Wade Van Ness, testified that after the Davey administration went into office in January, 1935, it became the practice of collectors to call at the department for checks due to contractors. He named a man who collected campaign funds for Davey and two other men as among those who frequently called for the checks due contractors. The three men are associates of the state Democratic chairman, an Old Guarder.

One of the men collected half-a-cent a gallon commission on gasoline sold to the state, according to testimony before the investigating committee.

The state purchasing agent, Glenn A Horn, admitted to the committee that the state was "gypped" on coal purchases.

The head of the Hot Mixed Bituminous Paving Industry, C. W. Simpson, told the committee how members held a monopoly on hot mix highway resurfacing.

Women employes of the state government testified that 3,000 Ohio state workers, many under civil service, were systematically fired since the last election because of doubtful "loyalty" to Governor Davey.

And so, on and on. It probably is the same in many states. It merely is coming to light in Ohio.

Listen, World!

Would You Have Chosen Your Parents If You'd Had a Vote?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO I, being a mother myself and hep to the breed, wrote an article asking whether MOTHERS AND FATHERS SHOULD BE HONORED, REGARDLESS. And stating, as my personal opinion, that they shouldn't—unless and until they qualified as Regular Humans. Which naturally evoked 5,893,247 varieties of Sam Hill from Mad Mamas and Peeved Papas.

But, 'midst all, the smoke 'n'flame, along comes Gramma Williams with the following boost and blast—

"Bravo, Elsie, for your article to youth on 'honoring parents.' I'm not youth, but a 60-year-old mother and grandmother. BUT FROM YOUNG WOMANHOOD I HAVE OFTEN WONDERED IF MOST CHILDREN WOULD HAVE CHOSEN THE PARENTS THEY ACQUIRED, IF THEY HAD HAD ANY CHOICE IN THE MATTER.

Mrs. R. S. Williams
'Route 2: Box 205
"Toxarkanaa, Texas."

I thought I was going some, but you'll have to admit that Gramma has made me seem like an amateur with her broadside.

WOULD YOU HAVE CHOSEN YOUR PARENTS? WOULD YOUR CHILDREN HAVE CHOSEN YOU AS A PARENT IF YOU OR THEY HAD HAD A VOTE?

IF THE MOTHERS AND FATHERS OF AMERICA HAD THE COURAGE TO FACE THOSE TWO QUESTIONS, WE'D HAVE A DIFFERENT NATION BY TOMORROW MORNING!

* * *

There is no nobler vocation on earth than that of mother or father. In sanctity of service, parents stand as priests before the High Altar of God. In civic importance, they outrank presidents, dictators, queens and kings. There is no adventure as thrilling, no opportunity as golden, no privilege as precious as that of being a parent.

BUT HOW MANY OF US LIVE UP TO THAT HIGH CALLING?

HOW MANY OF US DESERVE THE HONOR AND CONSIDERATION WE SO COMPLACENTLY DEMAND?

HOW MANY OF US EVEN KNOW OUR JOB?

The appalling truth is that no profession on earth has as high a plane of ideals—or as low an average record of service—as parenthood.

Nor is it entirely the parents' fault. They are the invisible result of that vicious tradition—"THE DIVINE RIGHT OF PARENTS."

* * *

As long as Dad and Mom held the pocketbook and the club, that tradition went unchallenged. But times do change. Today youngsters are no longer browbeaten spawn. They are People . . . People who pay their way, and have earned their right to think. As a result, the Divine Right of Parents has gone the way of all other Divine Rights—down the wind. And the Dad's and Mom's of 1938 must qualify as Regular Folk—or else! And with that verdict—to their everlasting credit be it said—most Moms and Dads enthusiastically agree.

Parents are not sacred, per se. Birth pangs never bestowed divinity upon any human being—nor even common sense. Any guinea pig can give birth—but what of it? You can't win a life-long halo by a couple of hours of pain.

BUT THE ACT OF GIVING BIRTH IS THE MOST SACRED RITE ON EARTH . . . AND THE MOST SIMPLE. PARENT MAY BE A PARENT OF GOD—IF HE WILL.

But we can't become God's Partners just by saying 'Mama spank" . . . or by using "love" to enslave and terrify a growing spirit . . . or to alibi laziness, cussedness and inexcusable stupidity.

LOVE WALKS WITH GOD—OR IT ISN'T LOVE!

Parents qualify, as human beings—or they are unworthy of honor or consideration. You'd judge any other workman by his performance, wouldn't you? Then why not a mother or father?

Now it's YOUR turn.

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

How Would You Answer?

I TURN ON the radio and find myself in the middle of one of those man-on-the-street programs in which men and women expose themselves to sudden questions.

The questioner is asking a young woman this question: "Which seems to you the pleasantest—to love or to be loved?"

And the young lady hesitates but a few seconds and answers that she thinks to be loved is the nicest.

And when she hears that answer the woman who is sitting near me, listening too, remarks that that was "a woman's answer"—and how would I have replied?

I do not hesitate even a few seconds. For me the obvious answer is that it is better to love.

That, you men say, is characteristically a man's answer to that question, selfish, self-centered, one-sided.

I know that is true. And I know, also, that the question is not fair. . . . To be loved, with no loving in return, can be a terrible bore and a frightful embarrassment. It is possible for some women, then, to accept love without affection on their part, to receive it as a cat receives a dish of cream, thinking only of what she is getting. Possible, also, for some men. . . . But for others it is not much fun. I remember the agony I suffered when I was about 14 years old when a little girl who lived down the street decided I was her "beau" and pursued me desperately for some weeks. I shudder when I think of how I ran around corners and how furtively I lived.

But it's just as sad a business for the one who loves and is not loved. If the first situation is embarrassment, the second is cruelty. To give generously of oneself and to have one's gift disdainfully rejected is a bitter trial indeed. It is to carry a stone in the breast, a sharp pain in the heart, it is to be a living ache of loneliness and despair.

It is futile to talk of such dismal possibilities. The richest gift that mortal men and women may receive is to love and to be loved. And to love for many years and to know that one is still loved by the one to whom you have given your love—that is a blessing beyond all appraisal.

McIntyre's New York Glimpses

—By O. O. McINTYRE

Editor's Note—The supply of copy O. O. McIntyre had prepared in advance for The News-Journal and other papers when death interrupted his work is nearly at an end. An important announcement as to what will replace the McIntyre column will be made soon.

THEY are going to try to make fiction readers conscious of a neglected, almost forgotten writer. He is red haired Harris Merton Lyon, who passed away some 20 years ago. While his output was slim, several capable critics regard him as another O. Henry.

Lyon, an alumnus of the Kansas City Star, was in his 30's when stricken. He was a contributor to Hampton's when I was on the staff, and I lunched with him, when in pocket, at Keene's chop house in the West 30's, the Algonquin gathering place of the period.

Although he had a number of short stories and a few books published, he felt keenly an indifference to his work. And the the last I saw of him he was rattling around somewhat hopelessly fashioning plugs for a pipe tobacco in one of the advertising agencies.

Carl Crow, the expert on China, is an old friend and admirer of Lyon and is taking part in the proposed rejuvenation of his works. Theodore Dreiser was among the many to encourage Lyon's fledgling flights. So were Bob Davis and the late Ray Long.

Most collegiates over from Princeton, down from New Haven or where-not meet their girl friends under the whopping clock in the Biltmore lobby. This has been a trysting place since the hotel was built. And the tryst was encouraged by the late John McE. Bowman, who thought no hotel could be prosperous without youth, although, strictly speaking, it's the least profitable trade. The Biltmore tea rooms also continue to feature hundreds of canaries, whose late afternoon obbligato is so enchating and often so pronounced it dims the orchestra.

In the days of the Childs white tiled walls and marble-topped tables, there was one in the chain on West 34th street where I lunched almost daily during a period of rocky going. As a gesture in throw-back sentimentalism I dropped in again the other day while in the neighborhood. And ordered my long-ago favorite — crisped corn beef hash with poached egg. Such things happen only in the movies or on the stage, but a fellow opposite me had his paper carefully folded to my column and seemed to be enjoying it between bites of a fruit salad. It was a bit silly and sophomorish, but upon departing I shoved my visiting card under his milk glass and walked out, feeling quite a fellow!

Oddly, notable stars wince at travesties by mimics. They will laugh at the impersonations of others but freeze up when burlesqued. More than any other class, they can't take it. Some years ago I saw Tallulah Bankhead at a private gathering—and first graciously asking permission—give a deliciously sly take-off on the art of Ethel Barrymore as that haughty lady watched from the side lines. The crowd roared, but Miss Barrymore gave a toss of her head that showed unmistakable pique. Shiela Barrett often has to change her night club routine because of unintentional offense in delineations. So has Mitzi Green. There may be slicker impersonations, but until one comes along I'll still take Pert Kelton in one of the Follies, who appeared in a chic evening frock and armed with a derby and black detachable mustache, donned them, and before your eyes slowly became an amazing Charlie Chaplin. Positively spooky!

Thingumbobs: Henry Ford likes to play parchesi for relaxation . . . . Mary Livingstone still trembles like a leaf before the microphone . . . . Clay Morgan, N. B. C. publicity chief, once a repertoire actor, is still stage struck. . . . Mrs. Vincent Astor never misses a Donald Duck. . . . Frank Case knows more about the niceties of English than many of his famous writing guests. . . . Dorothy Thompson no longer smiles when introduced, as she so often is, as the wife of Upton Sinclair.

Vesperal vagary: Around dusk there is rare sentimental adventure standing opposite the Metropolitan Museum of Art on 5th avenue at 80th street. It can only be enjoyed when traffic stops. Two small ledges run the entire length of the building between columns. These ledges are packed with birds, thousands, maybe a million. All talking. Further along toward the north, windows are lighted. Every pane is silhouetted with birds in sashes, looking as if the glass were set in birds and Walt Disney the glazier!

CHAPTER VIII

"I agree with you, my cousin," replied Murray, dryly, "that he is very beautiful. I suppose—I suppose that he is as good as he is beautiful."

"Good? Good? Who expects a man to be good? You are a child, Murray. But as far as that goes, I have no reason to suppose that he is not. As good as a man should be, that is."

"He is a friend of your father?" Murray asked, as they turned horses and started back to the hacienda.

"Well, not exactly a friend," the girl explained, swinging her riding crop and looking mischievous. "But of course—one can never tell. He may become so. Even more than a friend."

"Hmph!" Murray sniffed. "He may become my cousin, also, eh? Well, keep him in your own corral, Mercedes mio; keep him in your own corral."

"He is, I think," the girl continued, "an important person. His credentials are of the best. From the governor of Chihuahua, for one. A personal note to my father, asking his hospitality for Don Ponce Robles.

"Just visiting?" suggested Murray. "Just wants some of our balmy atmosphere?"

"Oh, but no, Murray," replied the girl. "He is like you are. Well, maybe not quite the same. But he also seeks out mineral and oil land. And he believes that here at Rancho La Luz there is oil to be found. Oil in great quantities. Wouldn't it be nice to have oil wells, Murray?"

"So that's it, eh?" Murray Kilbourne pondered this. "Sorta horning in on my preserves, isn't he?" He spoke idly, but was thinking. Thinking that he himself had prospected every foot of Rancho La Luz. Thinking, "Oil, your grandmother!"

"Certainly he is trying to," agreed the girl. Then, smiling brightly at Murray, "You had better pay a little more attention to your preserves, primo mio—for Don Ponce is a very attractive man. To women."

"I—I didn't mean—" Murray stammered. What a girl! Why did she always give that sort of twist to things? "I mean that I am a mining engineer, also."

"But Don Ponce does not always think of mining and oil," the girl returned. "Sometimes—you know, Murray, you are not entirely repugnant to woman yourself. At least not to all women."

* * *

Murray Kilbourne grunted. Was embarrassed. The girl took pity on him—and rubbed it in.

"You Americans are so cold," she complained. "Here I have loved you ever since my hair was in pigtails, and have told you so often enough . . . and . . . and you have never even kissed me." She drew close suddenly. Leaned forward. "Kiss me, Murray; kiss me."

Murray gave her a startled glance. Thought swiftly, oh, well, what difference does it make. Leaned forward toward her and reached out an arm to draw her to him. . . .

"Oh, dispenseme ustedes," came a startled voice, please pardon me."

Murray drew back and the girl sat up. At a little distance stood the Mexican to whom Don Ponce Robles had been talking.

'Damn!" said Mercedes, under her breath. But Murray was relieved.

* * *

"You will pardon me, Don Murray?" the man said, in Spanish, when Mercedes was out of sight. "I did not hear...I was thinking about something." He stood, hat in hand, like a peon; his clothes were shoddy and work-stained, and his brown face appealed to the American.

"'Sta bien," Murray told him. "It's all right. And what were you thinking about?" It was difficult to conceive a Mexican peon doing much thinking, especially of that profound sort which would render him oblivious to the approach of riders.

"I was thinking, Don Murray, that it is only a little ways to Spain and that this afternoon I will go there. Sometimes my feet are very wonderful feet, and will take me anywhere I want to go. Are your feet like that, Don Murray?"

The American studied the man more closely now. Especially the eyes. Yes, there was the tell-tale mark of marihuana—the Mexican hashish. The eyes stared. Were not mobile, fixed, but intelligent.

"You seem to know me, hombre," said Murray then. "You work here?"

"Si, senor. I work here a little Now and then. But today I do not work. I go to Spain and perhaps ...who knows?...from there I will go to other far places and see what they are like. I have never been to China, for example."

"And your magic feet will take you there? And bring you back. In time for supper?"

"Oh, yes, Don Murray. My feet ...sometimes my feet are very wonderful feet."

"Well, go with God," said Murray, and continued his way. Too bad these peons would use marihuana. Still, it gave them magic feet...and other things. And — maybe this was why Don Ponce had been talking to the man. Maybe the man had been talking to Don Ponce, instead.

And scarcely was Murray out of sight when Don Ponce re-appeared and beckoned the man toward him.

"Pablo," he said, "I want to send a message to Tijuana at once. You will take it for me."

"Yes, senor, of course."

* * *

Don Ponce took a sealed envelope from his pocket. Handed it to the man called Pablo. Followed it with a silver dollar. Pablo said "Muchas gracias, senior," and stared at the envelope. "I cannot read, senor."

"There is no name on the envelope stupid," Don Ponce told him. "But it is to go to the grocery store of Juan Gomez. Do you know where that is?"

"But certainly, senor. Every one knows where the grocery store of Juan Gomez is."

"Very well, then, take it there. And give it to Juan Gomez. No one else. If he is absent, wait for him. It is understood?"

"It is understood, senor, although—although I intended to go to Spain this afternoon."

"When the letter is delivered, you may go to Spain, Pablo. That dollar will buy many miles of travel. So go quickly now—and no more marihuana until it is delivered." He touched his horse and galloped off.

"The store of Juan Gomez," Pablo repeated, like a child learning its lesson. "That is good. That is very good. I shall be very glad to go to the store of Juan Gomez. But first...let us see what this envelope contains."

Unhesitatingly he ripped it open, thrust the damaged envelope into his pocket. He read:

"Send me by your own messenger three pounds of figs and four bottles of good tequilla."

Then he folded the paper and put it into another pocket, rolled and lighted a brown paper cigaret, and started for the hacienda to get a horse which would carry him to Tijuana.

As he rode off the other peons laughed.

"He rides to Spain this afternoon He has magic feet. This marihuana is indeed wonderful stuff."

That night Murray Kilbourne returned to Tijuana, accompanied by Jose.

When he came to bid Mercedes adois, that one said, dark eyes flashing:

YOUR GREAT OPPORTUNITY TO DRIVE A BETTER CAR

National Used Car Exchange Week begins Saturday, March 5. It is one of the greatest chances you've ever had to own a better car. Thousands of fine cars—many of them guaranteed by dealers—are offered at prices far below trade-in values.

There are many sound reasons why it is to your advantage to buy now. The season is right—spring is just around the corner. The values are right—dealers have an unusually wide selection of good used cars. And the prices are remarkably low—way below those of several months ago.

Here's something else. Many of the cars in this National Used Car Exchange Week are 1937, 1936 and 1935 models with modern features that your old car doesn't have. For cars have improved greatly in the last few years. And this sale gives you the opportunity to have these improvements for very little money.

Better gasoline economy—smoother, more powerful engines—roomier bodies—big tires—big luggage compartments—dozens of worthwhile conveniences that weren't even thought of when your old car was built.

Think how you'd enjoy a car like that after the old one! Safety is important, too, for every member of the family. If you're driving a car with an old-style body or unreliable brakes, this is your chance to switch to a safer, more modern car, for very little money. And it's good business to trade-in your old car before you run into a big repair bill.

Your present car may cover the down-payment on the better car you want. Pay the balance on easy terms. If you have no car to trade, you can still take advantage of the low down-payments and easy terms during this sale. Watch the classified pages of this newspaper. Visit the used car lot or showroom of any authorized automobile dealer during the week of March 5 to March 12. Get there as early as you can, while the selection is best. One look at the cars and the prices in this big nation-wide sale will convince you that you can't afford to pass up this remarkable opportunity to DRIVE A BETTER, MORE MODERN CAR.

BAYOU INDIANS BELIEVED LINK TO AGELESS ERA

Houma Tribe Studied as New Possible Remnant of Race In Prehistoric Times.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA — The Houma Indians of the Louisiana bayou country may be descended, at least indirectly, from the prehistoric races of Mississippi Valley Mound Builders, according to Dr. F. G. Speck, professor of anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania.

The scientist returned recently from a trip of several months through parts of the almost inaccessible bayou regions near the town of Houma, La., after making a preliminary investigation which, he said, represented the first study of the history, customs and civilization of the Houma group since a survey 30 years ago by the Bureau of American Ethnology.

Dr. Speck found the little-known tribe, which is made up of remnants of the original Houma and several other tribes virtually wiped out in colonial Indian wars, to be flourishing.

Live Primitive Life.

"The people depend almost entirely on hunting, fishing and oyster gathering in the bayou country and live in comfort and simplicity in the vast marshes and cypress swamps in which the white man usually does not survive," the anthropologist reported.

"Their homes usually are thatched palmetto huts and their transportation over the marsh lands is provided by swift, dugout canoes. They are contented, peaceable, well-ordered, virtually crimeless and extremely clean."

Dr. Speck's findings indicate a link between the present tribe and the Mound Builders who developed a high degree of civilization, living in the Mississippi Valley for four centuries prior to the coming of the white man.

Earlier Link Possible.

"They suggest a connection with earlier peoples on the Mexican coast and gulf whose position is still a problem in respect to the influence from Mexico which may have resulted in the development of the Mound Builders' civilization," he said.

"Because the Houma have been visited by few ethnologists and therefore are comparatively little known, a preliminary investigation has been begun preparatory to a more complete study of their language and civilization."

The present race of fishermen and hunters, which numbers about 1,000 men, women and children and is increasing steadily, speaks Creole French as evidence of contact with early French settlers who drove the Houma from Central Louisiana in the 18th century, Dr. Speck explained.

BARRIERS UP

Indiana, Michigan Act to Bar Shipments of Beer.

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Trade barriers were up today in both Indiana and Michigan to prevent the shipment of beer from one state to the other.

Indiana's alcoholic beverages commission has issued a formal order banning, after March 14, the importation to Indiana or the sale in this state of beer, wine, whiskey, and malt manufactured in Michigan.

The order was in retaliation against a similar ban ordered by the Michigan Liquor Control commission for the same date which will prohibited distributors in that from handling beer made in Indiana.

SALMON FIND A WAY HOME

Each High Tide Brings in Fish With Barricade Down.

HAYWARD, Calif.—(AP)—It was years ago that a barricade stopped the annual salmon run up San Lorenzo creek. Since then there have been many generations of salmon hatched, caught and eaten.

But now that the barricade's down, fishermen here declare some ancient instinct has led today's salmon back. A bona fide salmon run has been occurring on each high tide, they report.

PENSIONS WORRY TO LOS ANGELES

62,000 on Rolls Compared to 54,000 in November.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Old-age pensions have created a fiscal problem for Los Angeles county.

Rex Thomson, county superintendent of charities, says there will be a total of 62,300 old-age pensioners on the rolls in the county by next June 30, compared with 54,799 on November 30, 1937, and 35,481 in July, 1936.

During the current fiscal year, Thomson reports, $20,901,581 will be spent in Los Angeles county on such cases. Of this sum, $7,119,587, or 34.1 per cent, must come from county tax funds.

Northern Rhodesia plans to celebrate in 1940 the centenary of David Livingstone's landing in South Africa.

APPROVE BILL

Senate, House Groups Favor RFC Debt Cancellations.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The senate and house banking committees have approved bills to authorize the treasury to cancel about $2,600,000,000 of Reconstruction Corporation obligations.

Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, in recommending the legislation, said it "won't affect the treasury, or the budget, or the finances of the government at all" because it is "purely a bookkeeping transaction."

Of the $2,609,000,000, about $1,800,000,000 was spent for relief purposes, Jones said, and much of the remainder went into subscriptions of capital stock in governmental agencies all at the direction of congress.

GIVES UP HOPE

Backer of Redfern Search Party Radios Message To Jungles.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(INS)—Somewhere in British Guiana today, the American rescue party searching for Paul Redfern, long-time missing flier considered a plea to give up their search and return home.

It was broadcast on short-wave by Mrs. Gertrude Fox, backer of the expedition whose husband Dr. Frederick J. Fox sailed with the expedition and recently died of jungle fever.

QUOTA FIXED

County to Be Allowed 25 in Citizens' Military Camp.

Richland county's 1938 quota in the Citizen's Military Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison has been set at 25, Major James L. Zimmerman, 189 Cline avenue, who is in charge of the CMTC for the county, announced today.

The Fifth Corps area, of which Ohio is a part, will be trained at the Indiana camp from July 2 to July 31.

"The purpose of the camp is to bring together for a month's training, young men from all walks of life, on a common basis of equality, and by supervised athletics, military drill and instruction in citizenship, to benefit them mentally and physically," Zimmerman pointed out.

A candidate must be physically fit, of good character and American citizen, or one who has taken out first naturalization papers, and must be between the ages of 17 and 29. Applications in this county should be made to Major Zimmerman who said the first 25 eligible men will be accepted.

ADMIRAL SAYS WARSHIPS ARE SAFE FROM AIRPLANE BOMBS

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(UP)—Rear Admiral Charles A. Blakely, who commands the navy's aircraft scouting force, said today that battleships are safe from airplane bombs, but that aircraft can sink any other types of warships.

The comparative merits of air and surface craft in battle, the admiral said, "depend on the ability to deliver the necessary explosive power at the right place at the proper time." This factor, he said makes it difficult to state, without qualification, that airplanes are more useful than warships, or vice versa.

"One salvo from all 15 of our battleships will hurl as much destruction into enemy lines as could 5,000 planes. Then, whereas the battleship would be ready to send another salvo in 30 seconds, the planes would have to go home for more bombs."

This was the best comparison of punishing power, he said.

"Two decades ago, when armaments were far weaker than those of today, the German battleships exhibited the ability to take it. That is one of the main reasons the dreadnaught is considered any fleet's main line of defense," he said.

A church is being built in Southwick, England, to the memory of mothers.

Attempt on Laborite Leader's Life Excites Japan

THUGS INJURE POLITICIAN IN HIS APARTMENT

Premier Applies Censorship On Incident as Excitement In Tokyo Runs High.

BULLETIN

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—Precipitating a grave internal crisis, four armed thugs broke into the apartment of Isoo Aba, leader of the social laborite party, today, injuring him slightly in an assassination attempt.

The government of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, faced with parliamentary overthrow as a result of the incident, clamped down a rigorous censorship immediately after the attack but some time later permitted brief factual cables to be sent.

Described as 'Emergency.'

Excitement in the capital ran high. The situation was described by highest police and government authorities as an "emergency."

A conference of political party leaders was summoned immediately to consider the situation. Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye issued a reassuring statement to the populace expressing official regrets that "incidents such as this are continually occurring."

The upper and lower houses of parliament were expected to adopt a joint resolution censuring Minister of the Interior Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, who is suspected of lenience toward ruffians guilty of attacks upon and organized intimidation of parliamentarians in the discharge of their duties.

(Editor's Note: The censor crossed out all details of Suetsugu's connection with the attempted assassination. Suetsugu, former commander-in-chief of the combined fleets and leader of the Pan-Asiatic movement, has frequently been mentioned as Japan's next prime minister.)

Headquarters of the Minseito (opposition party) was plastered with posters accusing members of the diet of cowardice and lack of patriotism.

(Editor's Note: Here the censor's pencil reduced the cable dispatch to gibberish. The sense seemed to be that public opinion is rising against the "high-handed" methods of government leaders.)

Ready to Oust Cabinet.

Today's bloody attack on Aba (Note: This word was the only indication that the victim may have been wounded in the assault) brings the situation to a crisis. The public for months has been displeased with the government's program and is ready to force out the cabinet.

The showdown is expected to come in a vigorous parliamentary denunciation of the government's policies.

Farmer Ends Life As Family Dines In Adjoining Room

WILLARD—With his wife and family at the supper table in an adjoining room, Perry De Witt, 35, New Haven township farmer, killed himself with a 12-gauge shotgun last evening.

Believed despondent because of financial troubles, De Witt resided at his present home only a week, moving there from Greenfield township.

Coroner J. D. Bradish of New London said that De Witt had placed the end of the shotgun barrel against his temple and released the trigger with a yardstick. The coroner gave a verdict of suicide.

Surviving are his wife, Minnie; a son, Robert, three daughters, Marjane, Clara Mae and Delores; his father, Harry De Witt of Boughtonville; his mother, Mrs. Delia Cashbaugh of New Haven; and two sisters, Mrs. Dolly Newmeyer of Celeryville, and Mrs. Bertha Newmeyer of New Haven.

The body was removed to the Fink funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Rally to Rector's Defense In Balm Suit

Up and Down THE STREET

When wreckers get down to the cornerstone of the 80-year-old building at South Park and South Diamond streets, that was formerly the Presbyterian church, the stone will be carefully removed and presented to the First Presbyterian church on North Mulberry street. Gift of Carl Stander, Mansfield contractor and owner of the old church building, the cornerstone will provide an important link in the local history of the Presbyterian church, oldest in Mansfield. The old brick church building which is being razed to make way for a theater, was built in 1858 and is the second church to stand on the corner opposite the courthouse.

Boys with ambition can always find ways and means of helping themselves through college, and the time honored means is work about the college itself. But Mansfield and Bellville youths have found a decidedly novel method—they're firemen. Alfred Sneeringer, 36 Hofman avenue, and Paul Spayde of Bellville, are both members of the Upper Arlington fire department. Upper Arlington is a suburb of Columbus, where the boys are attending Ohio State university. The job fills two purposes — it is helping the boys through school and it gratifies the ambition that comes to every boy sometime in his life, to be a fireman.

Robert Simon, Mansfielder at the Cleveland Playhouse, who is making good in a really big way, has an interesting assignment which will take him and 20 fellow players to Charleston, S.C. The Dock Street theater in that city is the first ever built in the United States, and it recently was restored as a federal project. For the formal dedication the Cleveland Playhouse will present two plays there this month, "Libel" and "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse." Simon has a major role in both plays. Amy Carpenter Douglass, a former Mansfielder now residing in Cleveland, who will play the leading role in "First Lady," next Community Players production, also will go to Charleston with the group.

TICKETS READY

350 Scouts and Fathers to Dine on March 17.

Tickets were placed on sale today for the annual Father and Scout banquet to be held Thursday, March 17, in the Westinghouse cafeteria.

Tickets for the banquet have been limited to 350, and are being sold by all scoutmasters in the city Because of the great demand for tickets, and the lack of space to accommodate all of the 445 Boy Scouts in the city and their fathers, it was necessary to put a limit on the tickets, Scout Executive Floyd Dent said.

An all-scout program will be presented at the banquet, with every trop in the city being represented. Music will be furnished by the Scout orchestra under the direction of Eugene Smart. A speaker has not been selected as yet, but scout officials are planning to have Ozark Ripley, famous writer of outdoor stories, as the speaker.

The program will be in charge of a group of scoutmasters headed by C. G. Hillier, general chairman.

REVEALS PLOT TO ROB SOVIET

Ex-timber Head Discloses Plan to Trade Russian Forests for Aid in Uprising.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Vladimir I. Ivanoff, deposed chief of the Soviet timber industry, testified today he plotted to turn Russia's northern forests over to English magnates as compensation for British aid in the overflow of the Soviet regime.

Testifying at his trial with 20 other defendants charged with treasonable conspiracy, Ivanoff said that since 1934 he had spied for the British Intelligence Service on orders of the former Izvestia Editor Nikolai Bucharin's rightist center. Bucharin also is on trial.

The lumber concessions were to be granted to British firms, Ivanoff said, under plans drawn by his predecessor, Loboff.

Another defendant A. P. Rosengoltz, as commissar for foreign trade, "sold the lumber to England at a tremendous loss to prove the center had power," the witness testified. "It was a sort of deposit on account."

Disputing Ivanoff's statement that he (Bucharin) had said in 1928 the time was ripe for an armed uprising, Bucharin said it was in 1932.

"I gave the uprising its orientation," he said. "Let me be held responsible for everything it involves." "You will be, without your special request," Vishinsky shot back.

Details of the conspiracy were traced back to Leon Trotsky, former Bolshevist leader now living in exile in Mexico, and Gregory I. Piatikoff, executed after the January, 1937, trials.

WELCOME FOR WILSON SEEN AS REBUKE FOR RECALLED ENVOY

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—In an obvious rebuke to William E. Dodd, former United States ambassador to Berlin who has vigorously criticized the Nazis since his recall, Reichsfuehrer Hitler today extended an ostentatious welcome to his successor, Hugh R. Wilson.

Receiving the new envoy at the chancellory, Hitler said frankly he accepted Wilson's credentials and Dodd's letter of recall "with satisfaction" and stressed his own desire to "deepen and strengthen" friendly German-American relations.

When Dodd left Berlin to return to the United States there was not the slightest semblance of an official farewell. In contrast, Hitler sent his personal limousine to pick up Wilson at the embassy and dispatched a cavalcade of five cars to bring the entire American staff to the chancellory.

After Wilson had presented his credentials and extended personal greetings to Hitler from President Roosevelt, the feuhrer said:

"I accept your credentials and the letter recalling your predecessor with satisfaction.

"I welcome the earnest desire you have expressed to deepen and strength the friendly relations existing between our two countries.

"The circumstances that you are not coming to Germany for the first time, and the fact that you know the German people from your previous diplomatic activity, will considerably facilitate your efforts to serve the mutual understanding of our two peoples.

"May your excellency be assured that I and the German government are guided by the same aspirations. We shall do everything to support you in attaining your goal."

OTHER CLERICS, FRIENDS TAKE WITNESS STAND

Jury Hears Letters in Which Pastor Calls Plaintiff "Perfect Person."

(By Associated Press)

STEUBENVILLE—Friends, former parishioners and fellow ministers came today to the defense of the Rev. Harold C. Zeis, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, as he attempted to prove that Cora Lillian Burnham, who is suing him for breach of promise, had agreed to relinquish her claim on his affections.

Eight of his friends already have testified that Miss Burnham, divorcee and New York secretary, told them she "could not marry Mr Zeis in the church and would not marry him out of it."

The rector's counsel cited previously the rule of the Episcopal church that no member may marry a divorced person whose husband or wife is living unless the grounds for divorce was adultery and it is the innocent party who seeks to remarry.

Mrs. Zeis to Testify.

Mrs. Zeis, whom he married in January, 1936, after courting Miss Burnham for eight years, also will testify. Mrs. Zeis is the former Mrs. Emma Carter Sharpe, widow of A. B. Sharpe, pioneer Ohio Valley Steel man. Alexander Beatty Sharpe, jr., her son, was Mr. Zeis' best man at the wedding.

Passages from letters the young but gray-haired rector wrote to Miss Burnham from Steubenville and during a trip to Europe in 1935 were read to the jury yesterday. In them he referred to Miss Burnham as a "perfect person," "sweet girl," and other endearing terms.

Then came a letter in which he said he had "to make a choice between you . . . and the church,," followed by one in January, 1936, in which he told of his wedding and expressed the "hope you find it in your heart to wish me luck."

Miss Burnham, who seeks $100,000 damages, had testified that when Mr. Zeis told her he intended to marry Mrs. Sharpe, he said:

"I want to be free. I've got to be free I'm going to marry Emma Sharpe. I'm going to hobnob with success I'm going places You can't help me. You've only held me back."

Miss Burnham was divorced from her husband, Charles, at Bellefontaine, O., physical director, in 1927. She testified that Mr. Zeis promised to marry her in June of the following year.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Credulity Strained.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S denial, through his secretary, that he is personally to profit from the sale of his public speeches and messages to newspapers and magazines, but only from the books, is too belated to carry much conviction. It seems disingenuous and not entirely sincere in that it obviously seeks to convey the idea that he never intended to profit thereby.

Acceptance of that idea imposes a severe strain on the credulity. That is as far as one can go with a president. Certainly the record does not sustain the idea. It seems, in fact, a typical White House way of escaping from a painful position, the same method employed a month or so ago when at one press conference Mr. Roosevelt suggested abolishing all holding companies and at the next contended that he had been misrepresented. Between the two conferences he had been subjected to a withering criticism for the absurd impracticability of his proposal. His denial was made after it became apparent he was occupying an untenable position.

* * *

EXACTLY the same thing appears to have happened in this business of the publication of his papers and speeches. On Feb. 8 the president confirmed the fact that the five volumes of "The Public Papers and Addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt" were soon to be issued and that in advance of the books, serialization rights had been sold to magazines and newspapers. It became known that one syndicate had been offered the newspaper rights for $100,000, but had declined. The statement was made that of this sum a literary agent was to receive 10 per cent, Judge Sam Rosenman, who did the work, 35 per cent, and the remaining 55 per cent, it was assumed, went to the president. On Feb. 9 the newspapers generally printed the following paragraph: "To an inquiry as to whether the net revenue for the sale of the books and the magazine and newspaper rights would go to charity, the answer from the White House secretariat was that it would not and that the president's statement at this press conference today covered the whole subject. The assumption is that the proceeds will go to the president."

* * *

THIS statement stood uncontradicted for three weeks. Not one word came from the White House about the president's not profiting from the magazines and newspapers. Not one word was uttered about devoting the proceeds to some "unnamed useful public purpose." Not one word "clarifying" the facts or claiming to be misunderstood was heard. The secretary's Feb. 8 assertion that the president's statement had "covered the whole subject" remained the last word until March 1. But in the meantime, all over the country there had been shocked expressions at what was regarded as a degrading commercialization of the White House by the incumbent.

* * *

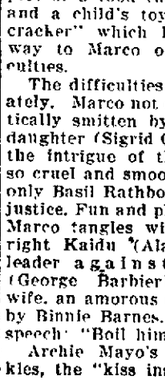
BLISTERING editorials appeared in a number of papers. The president's denunciations of "high-pressure salesmanship" were recalled as applicable to what he himself, was doing. One commentator whose column is published in many papers suggested that the president might make a good deal of money by installing a turnstile at the White House and charging admission. Other suggestions of a similar nature were made.

* * *

OPEN comment of the most caustic kind was made in congress. Messages and letters began to pour into the White House. Republicans made it plain that in the coming campaign they intended to charge that what the Roosevelt family has been and is doing in the way of capitalizing the presidency amounts to an open scandal. In other words, the announcement of what the president proposed to do, coupled with the family financial activities, had made a considerable stir in the country One western paper, heretofore pro-New Deal, printed a picture of the entire family under the caption of the "The Money-Making Roosevelts." It was the sort of thing people could understand easily. Once soaked into the public mind, it would engender resentment. Certainly it would make the "economic royalist" issue rather ridiculous. After three weeks of this, the secretariat now issues a statement that neither the president nor Judge Rosenman will profit by the newspaper and magazine rights, but only from the sale of the books, the returns from which the White House says, "it has a feeling will not be considerable."

* * *

IT TOOK just three weeks to discover that the president's first statement, in which he made not the slightest mention that the newspaper and magazine proceeds, differing from the book sales, were to be diverted to an "unnamed public service," did not cover the whole subject. As a matter of fact, keeping the book sales and not keeping the proceeds from newspaper and magazine sales may diminish the amount of his profit, but it does not in the least alter the principle or change the ethics or make it any better taste. If one is commercialization of the White House, so is the other.



Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If you like satire, and at the same time like cowboy-and-Indian stuff, "The Adventures of Marco Polo" was made to your order.

The new Goldwyn film, richly set in a background of 13th Century China and the court of Kublai Khan, has all the elements of blood-and-thunder excitement presented as you like it. Either straight, or tongue-in-cheek, it's top-flight entertainment. Both ways at once, it's an amazingly deft job.

Robert E Sherwood's screen play about the fabled Venetian, here presented as "the first traveling salesman" in the person of Gary Cooper, fusses with history only where convenient. The emphasis, happily, is purely on comedy and adventure

* * *

Marco sets out with Binguccio (Ernest Truex) across Asia to establish, if possible, trade relations with Kublai Khan. Arrived after years, he makes the acquaintance of a scholarly inventor (H. B. Warner), from whom he gets samples of a food called "spaghette" and a child's toy called a "firecracker" which later suggests a way to Marco out of his difficulties.

The difficulties pile up immediately. Marco not only gets romantically smitten by Kublai Khan's daughter (Sigrid Gurie) but bucks the intrigue of the wily Ahmed, so cruel and smooth a villain that only Basil Rathbone could do him justice. Fun and plot thicken when Marco tangles with gusty, forthright Kaidu (Alan Hale), rebel leader against Kublai Khan, (George Barbier) and Kaidu's wife, an amorous designer, played by Binnie Barnes. (Sample Kaidu speech: "Boil him in oil!")

Archie Mayo's direction sparkles, the "kiss instruction" scene between Cooper and Gurie, a memorable highlight. And Miss Gurie, from Norway, can be put down as a real "discovery" for a performance as unstudiedly exquisite as Cooper's is natural.

* * *

"Romance In the Dark" is Paramount's solution to the problem of presenting an opera singer on the screen The idea isn't exactly new. Gladys Swarthout is the poor student who wins her chance in opera, just like all the other operatic heroines of the movies. Where Lily Pons in "Hitting a New High" became a jungle birdgirl, Miss Swarthout more directly becomes a maid in the home of operatic idol John Boles, gets in her singing licks between comic battles of Boles and John Barrymore for the fickle attentions of Claire Dodd, finally gets her man after serving as pawn in this feud. Fritz Feld as Boles' handyman cops the most laughs. Boles sings again after a long silence, which is welcome, but he seems miscast as the temperamental tenor.

If you haven't seen "Bringing Up Baby" already, you've doubtless heard of it as one of the year's funniest. It's the one about Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn and the leopard—and it's Hepburn's first real fling at comedy. With "Stage Door" and this one behind her, Katie can consider the long slump ended and a new career begun.

JOURNEY CLUB HOLDS LAST MEETING OF YEAR

Mrs. W. W. Tawse Hostess to Members; Mrs. W. L. Althouse Speaks on "Highlights of London," Gives Historical Picture.

AT THE FINAL MEETING of the season routine business was finished and plans for next year's program were discussed by members of the Journey club. Mrs. W. W. Tawse, 135 Glenwood boulevard, was hostess to the organization. It was decided that the members would continue the discussion of England for the program topic, and definite subjects will be selected later.

The paper of the day, which concluded this year's series on England, dealt with "Highlights of London." Mrs. W. L. Althouse gave the paper in which she considered this ancient city—this city of politics, of squalor, of splendor and strife, of the world's greatest beauties and disappointments—from social, political, and historical angles.

Mrs. Althouse mentioned famous people and reported on historical and renowned public buildings. She also gave a picture of the historical London and the modern day city and spoke of the famous English writers who had frequented London in the preceding century. Her paper gave an adequate and enlightening picture of the British people in one of the largest cities of the world.

No plans for future meetings were announced, but the club will resume regular sessions in the fall, according to Mrs. Carl Willsey, secretary.

Presents Pupils In Piano Recital

Approximately 75 parents of pupils and friends heard the students of Miss Thelma Reed last night in a piano recital at the Women's club. Miss Reed presented 22 of her students in various piano selections.

Those appearing on the program were Ann Shawber, Marilyn Noser, Edwin Lockwood, Richard Zeigler, Lloyd Shawber, Ernest Pennell, Margaret Griffith, Marjorie Zeigler, Dorothy Zeigler, Helen Pecht, Joanne Wragg, Ruth Elaine Swisher, Margaret Buhr, Georgeann Kyle, Jack Lautsbaugh, Rosa Schwaner, Donald Kyle, William Pecht, Martha Mary Funk, Fred Elder, jr., Helen Christoff and Margie DePue.

Miss Reed will present another group of pupils in a recital March 9. Friends and parents have been invited to the affair which will be held at the Women's club.

The speaker, who is a British writer, was educated at Eton and Cambridge. After a two year period as a shipping clerk Buckley set off on a world tour. He finally put the story of his wanderings in book form as a result of the many requests he had for talks on his trip. This first volume, published in 1932, was titled the same as his lecture subject.

By no means is Buckley a stunt traveler, but rather he follows the ordinary routes and gets unusual things. He has what is frequently spoken of as an exceptional collection of photographs and souvenirs of the places he has visited.

With a fine understanding of what interests the public, the speaker blends the personal ,the historical, and the geographical into a fascinating background of high adventure and fascinating events.

Divorced But Man Won't Leave

By VIRGINIA LEE

WHAT TO DO with a husband she has divorced but who won't stay away from her and swears he loves her alone is Blondie's problem.

She divorced her husband because he drank and lied to her. She then loved him very much, she writes. He makes her very nervous by calling her up, coming to see her, calling her every morning to take her to work and taking her home at night.

He is also going with another girl, and then he lies to Blondie and tells her he is ill, and that is why he is not with her. His mother doesn't like her, either, Blondie says, and influences him to go with the other girl. Should she forget him she asks. He is 14 years older than she is she says.

"Well, if this husband of yours had given up drinking and lying to get you back I would think he really cared for you and might advise you to take him back and try it over. But what happiness could you expect with such a man? It does seem to me that as you now are free of him—legally, that is—it would be better not to see him and to forget about him, as well as a person can forget a person one has loved and lost.

Can you go away somewhere so that you do not have to see him? If you could maybe you could meet someone else and be happy. At any rate he would not be able to make you nervous and unhappy as he now is doing.

J. E. M. has trouble with her complexion Many young girls of your age do have this trouble, J. E. M., and it usually clears up after awhile, so don't despair. You says yours is better than it was a year ago

The usual procedure is to keep yourself spotlessly clean, not only to keep your face clean, but bathe your whole body frequently. Drink plenty of milk and eat eggs often, if they agree with you. Eat plenty of fresh vegetables and fruit Lettuce- cabbage, carrots and other such vegetables are very good for you. Don't drink tea or coffee, but fruit juice, including tomato juice, is very good, and plenty of water. Don't use cream on your face, as that usually aggravates the condition. Use cosmetics very sparingly, as they are apt to clog the pores and clogged pores is one of your troubles

I think if you follow these rules your skin will gradually improve, and you will eventually outgrow the condition. Let me know how you are doing.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, March 4.

A VERY lively and prolific day is read from the rather peculiar and intriguing planetary operations. There are many angles to tax the ingenuity, good judgment and shrewdness, all promising much gain and satisfaction if cleverly manipulated. Large interests, important personages, old friends as well as new enter into the affairs conspicuously and decisively.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very active year, with many peculiar, surprising and intriguing situations in both the business and private lives. Many important decisions seem to involve friends, both old and new, with strangers or new propositions also offering advantages. But be wary with speech and writings.

A child born on this day may have a number of contradictory traits. It may be aggressive and stolid, reckless and turbulent, but slow and moody and cautious. Much depends upon its education.

This first week of March is early enough to sow seeds in a hotbed. Sow in rows about two inches apart. Covering seeds four times their own thickness is a good rule to follow.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

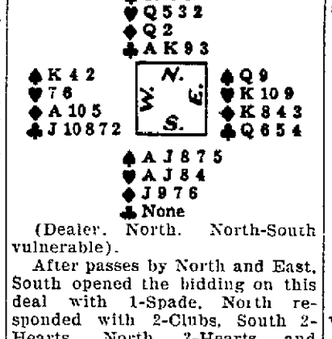
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRASHING THE LOSERS

MAKING a suit contract is mainly a problem of getting rid of your losing cards, leaving nothing but winners. Sometimes a declarer will count the losers in each of the suits and add them up to a larger total than he can afford. But if he can trash some of them, by ruffing or throwing them on setup cards of another suit, he puts himself in line to attain his goal.



(Dealer, North. North-South vulnerable).

After passes by North and East, South opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Spade, North responded with 2-Clubs, South 2-Hearts. North 3-Hearts and South 4-Hearts.

Against this bidding, West elected to lead the heart 7, on which East played the 10 and South the J. Declarer then cashed the heart A, leaving the heart K a winner. With two diamonds off the hand and a trump, the question was how to avoid another loser.

His next move was to give up a trick to East's heart K, whereupon the opponents cashed two diamonds East then switched to the spade Q and declarer went in with the A. The diamonds J and 9 were now played, on which two spades were tossed from dummy. A spade was now ruffed with dummy's last trump and on the clubs A and K, two spades were discarded. A club was now ruffed and the remaining good spade cashed

Newest Thing In Nail Polish Sparkles

By GLADYS GLAD
(America's Most Famous Beauty)

HISTORIANS tell us that the court beauties of Napoleon's era were noted for the sparkling splendor of their fashions But if you ask me, they had nothing on the flashing beauty and brilliance of our present sequin-sprinkled evening fashions. You have to fairly glitter to look stylish this season. And to help create that illusion of gilded glamor, we now have—believe it or not—sequin nail polish, so even your fingertips may glitter.

This new sequin-flecked polish comes in both gold and silver, and it is easy to apply. You can put it on thinly or thickly, as you prefer And it can also be used over or under different polish shades, to highlight them. A soft rose shade of polish over silver sequins for instance, adds considerable glamor to the fingertips. And for a more exotic effect, try flecking your ruby or cardinal polish with gold sequins! The fad at present, when using this new polish, is to cover each entire nail, even the rims and half-moons.

Manicure First.

Some women today still prefer to use a dry powder polish, but most use liquid polish because it gives an added gloss and luster to the nails If you are one of the latter, and prefer a liquid to a dry polish, however, always make sure that the surface of each of your nails is perfectly clean before you apply the liquid enamel For the presence of any foreign substance on the nails may mar the smoothness of the coating, and cause the polish to crack and peel

Before putting on liquid polish, of course, the primary steps of manicuring should be gone through Complete the filing and cleansing of your nails, and remove any dead cuticle and any traces of old polish. Then grease your fingertips, scrub them with warm, soapy water, and dry them thoroughly And to make sure that there is not the least trace of any foreign matter present, buff your nails briskly with a clean chamois buffer

Then when the nails have been fully manicured and buffed, apply the polish. When applying it, the strokes of the brush should be made with the train of the nail The polish should be applied on the pink part of the nails only, and not on the half-moons or tips. Of course, at present there is a fashion for covering the entire nails, but ordinarily, the nailtips and half-moons are left uncovered.

The brush should not be too dry when the polish is applied, as this may cause a streaked effect. Then the tips should be wiped from the enamel with a bit of gauze or cotton, and the nails should be permitted to dry. It is inadvisable to blow on the nails to help the drying along, as this may make the polish cloudy and dull its luster

Women who possess ridged fingernails often have difficulty with vivid or dark polishes, for they sometimes give a streaked effect when applied to ridged nails The lass who possesses such nails should generally stick to the light, pale polishes. A pale tint of liquid polish will help to make the nails appear presentable, despite their ridging, for the colorless lacquer will flow down between the ridges and present a smooth, even surface to the eyes

MARY AND I looked at each other, startled by Miss Whitlock's exclamation, "Oh! I thought you had gone" It was true then, the nurse's suspicion that the hotel manager might have let the clicking elevator deceive us, and come back in the hope of hearing our comments upon Mr. Veritzen's odd directions concerning our suite and the others upon the same floor.

"Yes," came Mr. Milner's suave voice "I am afraid I left my fountain pen at the telephone desk May I look for it?"

"Oh, surely," the nurse replied, and we heard the manager's swiftly approaching footsteps. I shot a glance at the telephone desk saw upon it a fountain pen which did not belong to any of us, and picking it up, advanced toward Mr. Milner

"I could not help hearing you," I said, extending the pen to him.

"Oh! thank you so much!" he said effusively "I could not think where I had left it, but as this was the last place I had been, I came back when I missed it, almost immediately, just as I was getting into the elevator. My shocking memory! I wonder sometimes where it may lead me I'm so sorry to have troubled you. Good afternoon, again!"

Miss Whitlock had remained like a sentinel at the door, and she did not close it after him

"I think we'd like a little draught through here,' I heard her says as she passed him. Neither Mary nor I breated naturally until we again heard the click of the elevator and then a full minute later heard our own door close, and saw Miss Whitlock returning to us.

Sure He Was Listening.

"I suppose I'm an awful fool," the nurse said, "but I was sure he was listening outside that door As it turned out he really had left his fountain pen, but—I can't help wondering if he didn't leave it on purpose, so he would have an excuse to get back"

"The same thought came to me, also" I said dryly "I think you were perfectly justified in your action, Miss Whitlock. I can't put my finger on anything, but I think it behooves all three of us to keep our eyes wide open—"

"And our fingers crossed," Mary chimed in gaily, although her voice was muted to undertones as ours had been since the second exit of Mr Milner "'Me,' as Katie says, 'I tink dere plenty foony bizness round here, und I goin' dedoos somethings'"

She wrinkled her nose at us, as we laughed silently, and I voiced a thought which had puzzled me.

"I cannot understand Mr. Milner," I said "It seems below the dignity of the man to listen at the keyhole of one hotel patron at the behest of another, because, of course, if any espionage has been established upon us, it is at the request, or order, of Philip Veritzen."

"Better say 'order,' Auntie Madge," Mary commented thoughtfully. "Look here! Would you mind letting me 'go into the silence' for a minute or two" I'm trying to remember something elusive that's floating around in my brain cells. When I get it, maybe I can 'dee-doos' alee samee our Katie"

She perched herself on the broad window seat of the living room and gazed down at the parking space far below, now a maze of shuttling cars

"I am now a little fat Buddha," she announced, and Miss Whitlock and I went into the bedrooms and busied ourselves with unpacking our bags and putting the contents into their places. It was fully five minutes before a shouted summons from Mary brought us back into the living room

"I've got it! I've remembered!" she announced in an excited whisper "Noel's father owns the Lansfield."

Answers To Questions On Weddings

By EMILY POST

My Dear Mrs Post My daughter is being married during the summer, and as you see we live in the deep South and it will be very hot at the time of the wedding Her fiance has suggested that all the men wear all white. She is going to wear white and a veil and we haven't as yet decided what her bridesmaids' dresses are to be The wedding will be in the late afternoon Will you tell us what you think about the all white suits

Answer Midsummer in a very hot climate certainly provides ample reason for the choice of the white clothes you suggest. They do look cool and particularly nice if the bridesmaids also wear white so that the wedding is a completely white one

* * *

Dear Mrs Post My five-year-old son has been asked by his cousin to be ring bearer at her wedding. I am to choose his clothes. Will you tell me what a ring bearer wears at a medium sized church wedding His little cousin is to be the flower girl, and the bride thinks that the two children are supposed to walk together If they are, shouldn't they be dressed more or less alike?

Answer It would be better, I think, to have the children walk together than to have each child walk alone; and they should be dressed as much alike as possible. Usually the ring bearer is dressed in white and the flower girl in color, but it is not necessary that this be so.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: I understand when a person receives an invitation to a wedding she is expected to send a gift How does this apply to the servants in the groom's family, and to others in the employ of the families?

Answer: Only those who are invited to the reception or the breakfast are supposed to send presents If those in the employ of the families are invited to either of these entertainments, they would probably send small gifts By this I really mean that they would probably want to send them.

* * *

Dear Mrs Post Do you consider that it would be bad form to send out our wedding announcements in an unsealed envelope which requires only half the postage of a sealed one? I noticed many of our Christmas cards came with the flap turned in, and apparently people are getting more accustomed to this way of receiving mail. It would be quite a saving.

Answer: I think that half postage and turned in flaps would make your announcements seem very shoddy. Remember that engraved announcements are the very essence of formality and therefore have unavoidably strict exactions. If I were you I would try to economize on something else and not on the postage.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: What is your best suggestion for marking a collection of smart looking luggage? Most people seem to have their initials and I'd like to distinguish my bags in some other way if possible. May I use the family coat of arms? Coming to think about this, I've never seen any part of a coat of arms on bags, so would like very much to carry out this idea. On the other hand, there may be some reason why others haven't done it, since I can't believe that I am the first to think of it.

Answer: No, a coat of arms on luggage would be very bad taste although it is true that people of title sometimes have tiny crowns on their luggage. But unless you hold a title that grants the privilege of using a crown, a heraldic device is not suitable on luggage at any time, ever. It is proper on town cars, but nowhere else in public that I can think of. You can mark your bags with a monogram if you like. One of the square Chinese designs now in fashion might be very good looking.
